Flight Engineers Decide To Strike 2 Major Airlines

NEW YORK (AP) — Flight engineers have called a strike against Eastern Air Lines and Pan American World Airways for 1 p.m. Eastern Standard Time Saturday unless new contracts are reached.

They rejected as "completely unsatisfactory" the proposed settlement worked out for a similar dispute between engineers and Trans World Airlines. Engineers listed three reasons for turning down the proposal:

1. It removes the 20-year-old requirement that flight engineers

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Mediation Board offered Friday night to mediate the dispute of flight engineers who are scheduled to strike at 1 p.m. EST Saturday against Eastern Air Lines and Pan American World Airways. A union spokesman said the flight engineers would strike regardless.

must possess aircraft mechanic licenses.

2. It "gives no real protection for our self-representation rights."

3. It does not settle economic issues, nor provide an acceptable method of settling them.

STATEMENT

The statement from Ronald Brown, president of the Flight Engineers International Association, AFL-CIO, noted that the TWA settlement reached with government help had not yet been accepted by TWA rank-and-file engineers.

Brown, who attended the closed meeting here of the union's negotiating teams for Pan Am and Eastern, declared: "We are being driven to a strike by the carriers who are hiding behind a government that now has picked us

Pact Ends Strike At Ford Plant

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union reached agreement Friday night to settle a crippling strike at the Walton Hills stamping plant which has idled 77,000 workers.

The agreement, announced by M. M. (Mike) Cummings, director of labor relations for Ford, and Ken Bannan of the UAW, now must be ratified by the 3,200 workers at Walton Hills. A membership meeting has been set for 10 a.m. Sunday.

Bannan said his team of union negotiators was satisfied with the proposals by Ford and accepted the agreement unanimously. He said he would recommend ratification by UAW Local 420's members.

No details were disclosed. Bannan said they would be made first to the striking members, who walked out in a dispute over production standards early on June 7.

The big stamping plant makes parts for all Ford autos and the company closed down all 16 of its assembly plants shortly after the strike here cut off parts.

Cummings said all issues were resolved in the agreement and expressed hope Walton Hills operations would be functioning by Monday. He said there would be a lag of several days before the assembly plants could resume operations after ratification.

Soviet Vetoes U.N. Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union vetoed an Irish resolution Friday night that would have had the U.N. Security Council urge India and Pakistan to negotiate for settlement of their 15-year-old dispute over Kashmir. It was the 100th Soviet veto.

Soviet Delegate Platon D. Morozov cast the veto after Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon opposed the proposal and said its introduction was an unfriendly act that would send a shock through India.

The council gave seven votes in favor of the resolution, with two against and two countries abstaining. Ghana and the United Arab Republic were the abstainers. Romania joined the Soviet Union in voting no.

U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson denounced the Soviet veto. He said the Soviet Union had used the veto time and again for the last 15 years to obstruct the operations of the council, even when its own interests were not directly involved.

House Gets New Bill On Farm Grains Measure Would Extend Present Programs Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—The shape of an object compromise—an extension of present emergency wheat and feed grain programs—emerged Friday as dust settled after the stunning defeat of the administration's farm bill.

Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., introduced the new measure after holding a grim post-mortem on the death of the farm bill with Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Democratic members of his House Agriculture Committee.

DEFEATED EARLIER

Such a one-year extension of present programs was just what Republican farm leader Rep. Charles B. Hoeven of Iowa tried to substitute for the administration bill on the House floor Thursday night. His amendment failed, but the later move to kill the bill carried 215-205.

Cooley said, "We have no choice but to turn to the program that is the second best available to us. We cannot afford to return in 1963 to the Benson farm program which filled our warehouses with surpluses at a continued cost of billions to the taxpayers. This is what will happen if we do not act at all."

Cooley told the House he hopes to win committee approval of the new bill Monday.

The emergency one-year wheat and feed grain voluntary control programs will expire this year unless new legislation is passed, and the law would revert to the 1958 act of Republican Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, which provided price supports on any amount of grain produced.

The present emergency grain programs have a voluntary acreage reduction feature.

Electrical Accident Is Fatal

HARRISONBURG (Special)—Mrs. Jim Smith, 70, was electrocuted in an accident under her home about four miles north of here between 1 p.m. and 2 p.m. Friday, according to Dr. Charles F. Passman, parish coroner.

According to parish officials, she apparently had gone underneath to get out a dead dog which apparently had been electrocuted. Her body was discovered by her daughter, Mrs. Sena Mae Cobb, who resided with her.

Her daughter attempted to go underneath the house to recover her mother's body, but was shocked by an electrical charge coming from the wet earth. Following this Mrs. Cobb turned off electrical power at the house control box, and then summoned help.

First to reach there in response to her call was Horace Taylor, Harrisonburg marshal and deputy sheriff.

The body was taken to Young's Funeral Home in Jonesville. Dr. Passman ordered an electrician to check condition of wiring under the house, in an effort to determine the cause of the mishap.

Lawmakers who missed sessions were: Sen. Jamar Adcock, Monroe; Rep. Lasley Downes, Rayville; one session, a leave-of-absence; Rep. Edgar Lancaster, Tallulah; one session, a leave-of-absence; Rep. W. C. Steen, Columbia; one session, and Rep. James McCormack, Bastrop; one session, a leave of absence.

Lawmakers recorded with being present for all roll calls include the following: Rep. Lawrence Gibbs and Rep. Mike John Jr., Monroe; Rep. T. Fields, Farmerville; Rep. Chester Floyd, Jena; Rep. I. J. Allen, Jonesboro; Rep. W. S. Peck Jr., Sicily Island; Rep. Jack Crane, Monterey; Rep. Lantz Womack, Winnboro; and Rep. Vail Delony, Lake Providence.

Warm, Partly Cloudy Today

'Tube' Vessel Launched To Aid Research

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The latest ocean research vessel was launched Friday—a 355-foot-long tube that can be flipped onto its end in the ocean.

In that position about 50 feet of the spar is above the surface. Up there are living quarters and laboratories for a crew of up to four persons, who can live there up to two weeks without additional supplies.

CAN BE TOWED

On the 300-foot-long underwater portion are acoustical measuring devices and other gear to determine sound, wave motion, salinity and other ocean data.

The tube, christened "Flip", can be towed in the horizontal position, then turned to the vertical position by flooding its lower section with water. It can be turned back by emptying these ballast tanks.

It is expected to provide the most stable platform yet for ocean studies. The tube is 12 1/2 feet in diameter at the top, but at the 150-foot mark it begins to taper out until it reaches a 20-foot width at the bottom.

Scientists believe 30-foot-high waves will make it rise and fall no more than three feet. They believe it will have a list of no more than three degrees in the worst storm.

This manned buoy was built for the Scripps Institution of Oceanography of the University of California.

Mrs. F. N. Spiess, wife of the acting director of the institution, christened the strange vessel as it was launched at the Gunderson Bros. Engineering Corp. on Friday.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., also attended, commenting that designers were able to pare the original cost estimate of $2 million down to an actual $500,000.

Jackson Attacks Adcock Measure

By SAM HANNA
World Legislative Writer

BATON ROUGE — State Supt. of Education Shelby M. Jackson said Friday Sen. Jamar Adcock's bill to make his position appointive rather than elective was a "political persecution bill."

But Adcock fired back, "I don't see how the bill could be aimed at removing Mr. Jackson, because he has publicly stated that he is not going to run for superintendent anymore, that he is going to run for governor."

Jackson defended the method of electing the state school superintendent, which Adcock proposes to change in a bill that will be voted on Monday in the Senate.

"CERTAIN PEOPLE"

"For many years, there have been certain people who would like to gain control of public education," Jackson said. "They want to get me out of the picture because I am for keeping the public education system in the hands of the people."

When asked to identify the people he referred to, Jackson replied, "If the time ever comes, I could back up my statements."

Adcock's bill would permit the State Board of Education to appoint the superintendent, which is the practice on the local level where boards appoint the superintendent.

But Jackson said, "That would be the worst thing that ever happened. If you would take the schools out of the hands of the people, there would be certain groups in control."

Referring to Adcock's charge of the tires, Jackson has politicized the education system, Jackson over to try and fix his tire with said, "That's just a matter of his iron, he was attacked by three personal opinion. The word policemen he could not identify."

BEFORE SENATE ACTION

Jones Plans Poll On Convention Bill

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Sen. Howard Jones of St. Joseph said Friday he plans to poll legislators for their views before seeking Senate committee action on his constitutional convention bill.

Senate and House administration leaders said in interviews they doubted any convention proposal would gain a legislative approval at this time.

Jones, a friend of Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, introduced a bill requiring only for a majority vote in each House since it would not be submitted to the people.

Davis has given no public indication of what he thinks. Jones' proposal calls for a 90-day convention of the 144 lawmakers and 50 delegates appointed by the governor to meet for 90 days within two months after this session ended. The bill is in the Senate.

Says Regime Floundering, Creates Fear

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said Friday night the Kennedy administration is "floundering - thrashing aimlessly and a bit desperately" while the nation's economy worsens and its people become fearful.

In a hard-hitting speech delivered to a sellout crowd of 3,000 Republicans at a congressional campaign fundraising dinner—the former president attributed "glaring failures" to the Democrats.

HITS DICTATES

Eisenhower charged that the Kennedy administration "seems almost driven to alienate major elements of the business community" and said recent events suggest it wants to "dictate the economic decisions of management."

To Republicans assembled in two hotel ballrooms for a $100-a-plate dinner, Eisenhower said members of the GOP will maintain bipartisanship on foreign affairs throughout the coming congressional election campaign.

But he said the party has a responsibility to protect the "political maladministration, malfunctioning and maladjustment in Washington."

"Quite obviously, this administration is floundering—thrashing aimlessly and a bit desperately about—in the surging financial fiscal and economic currents of our times," Eisenhower declared.

"It is difficult to appear to stem primarily from an inadequate understanding of our American system—of how it really works, of the psychological, motivational

New Lows Registered By Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices were hammered to new 1962 lows again Friday.

Trading was heavy as two waves of selling, sandwiched around a feeble rally, drove prices of several market leaders down 82 and more a share.

Some losses were held to fractions. A few growth stocks breached the tide to post advances. Leading industrial issues and utilities were hard hit, with many steels, chemicals, drugs, airlines, aerospace, rubber and mail order retail stocks absorbing sizeable losses.

With turnover at 3.6 million shares, the ticker tape fell behind in reporting floor transactions, running as much as 10 minutes late in the morning and four minutes behind at the close.

On the basis of the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, an estimated $4.9 billion was slashed from the quoted value of "big board" stocks.

The AP average fell 3.40 to a low for the year of 202.50, with industrials down 5.00, rails down 1.50 and utilities down 1.80, all to 1962 lows. The over-all index hadn't been as low since Nov. 28, 1958 when it dipped to 201.90.

Also smashed to a new floor was the Dow Jones industrial average, at its farthest ebb since October 28, 1958.

The Dow-Jones reading dropped 11.30 to 539.19, a loss of 2.05 per cent. The Standard & Poor index of 500 stocks skidded .91 to 52.68. Of 1,323 issues traded, 996 declined and 160 advanced. One high was recorded, by American investment, against 339 individual lows for the year.

Pact Ends Strike At Ford Plant

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union reached agreement Friday night to settle a crippling strike at the Walton Hills stamping plant which has idled 77,000 workers.

The agreement, announced by M. M. (Mike) Cummings, director of labor relations for Ford, and Ken Bannan of the UAW, now must be ratified by the 3,200 workers at Walton Hills. A membership meeting has been set for 10 a.m. Sunday.

Bannan said his team of union negotiators was satisfied with the proposals by Ford and accepted the agreement unanimously. He said he would recommend ratification by UAW Local 420's members.

No details were disclosed. Bannan said they would be made first to the striking members, who walked out in a dispute over production standards early on June 7.

The big stamping plant makes parts for all Ford autos and the company closed down all 16 of its assembly plants shortly after the strike here cut off parts.

Soviet Delegate Platon D. Morozov cast the veto after Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon opposed the proposal and said its introduction was an unfriendly act that would send a shock through India.

House Gets New Bill On Farm Grains

Measure Would Extend Present Programs Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—The shape of an object compromise—an extension of present emergency wheat and feed grain programs—emerged Friday as dust settled after the stunning defeat of the administration's farm bill.

Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., introduced the new measure after holding a grim post mortem on the death of the farm bill with Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Democratic members of his House Agriculture Committee.

DEFEATED EARLIER

Such a one-year extension of present programs was just what Republican farm leader Rep. Charles B. Hoeven of Iowa tried to substitute for the administration bill on the House floor Thursday night. His amendment failed, but the later move to kill the bill carried 215-205.

We cannot afford to return in 1963 to the Benson farm program which filled our warehouses with surpluses at a continued cost of billions to the taxpayers. This is what will happen if we do not act at all."

Cooley told the House he hopes to win committee approval of the new bill Monday.

The emergency one-year wheat and feed grain voluntary control programs will expire this year unless new legislation is passed, and the law would revert to the 1958 act of Republican Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, which provided price supports on any amount of grain produced.

The present emergency grain programs have a voluntary acreage reduction feature.

MAKE JOB APPOINTIVE

Jackson Attacks Adcock Measure

By SAM HANNA World Legislative Writer

BATON ROUGE — State Supt. of Education Shelby M. Jackson said Friday Sen. Jamar Adcock's bill to make his position appointive rather than elective was a "political persecution bill."

But Adcock fired back, "I don't see how the bill could be aimed at removing Mr. Jackson, because he has publicly stated that he is not going to run for superintendent anymore, that he is going to run for governor."

Adcock defended the method of electing the state school superintendent, which Adcock proposes to change in a bill that will be voted on Monday in the Senate.

"CERTAIN PEOPLE" — "For many years, there have been certain people who would like to gain control of public education," Jackson said.

"They want to get me out of the picture because I am for keeping the public education system in the hands of the people," he said.

When asked to identify the people that he referred to, Jackson replied, "If the time ever comes, I could back up my statements."

Adcock's bill would permit the State Board of Education to appoint the superintendent, which is the practice on the local level where boards appoint the superintendent.

But Jackson said, "That would be the worst thing that ever happened. If you would take the schools out of the hands of the people, there would be certain groups in control."

Referring to Adcock's charge that Jackson has politicized the education system, Jackson said, "That's just a matter of his personal opinion. The word politician is not in the dictionary."

BEFORE SENATE ACTION

Jones Plans Poll On Convention Bill

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Sen. Howard Jones of St. Joseph said Friday he plans to poll legislators for their views before seeking Senate committee action on his constitutional convention bill.

Senate and House administration leaders said in interviews they doubted any convention proposal would gain a legislative approval at this time.

Jones, a friend of Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, introduced a bill requiring only for a majority vote in each House since it would not be submitted to the people.

Davis has given no public indication of what he thinks.

Jones' proposal calls for a 90-day convention of the 144 lawmakers and 50 delegates appointed by the governor to meet for 90 days within two months after this session ended. The bill is in the Senate judiciary A Committee.

Says Regime Floundering, Creates Fear

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said Friday night the Kennedy administration is "floundering - thrashing aimlessly and a bit desperately" while the nation's economy worsens and its people become fearful.

In a hard - hitting speech delivered to a sellout crowd of 3,000 Republicans at a congressional campaign fund-raising dinner — the former president attributed "glaring failures" to the Democrats.

HITS DICTATES

Eisenhower charged that the Kennedy administration "seems almost driven to alienate major elements of the business community" and said recent events suggest it wants to "dictate the economic decisions of management."

To Republicans assembled in two hotel ballrooms for a $100-a-plate dinner, Eisenhower said members of the GOP will maintain bipartisanship on foreign affairs throughout the coming congressional election campaign.

But he said the party has a responsibility to protect the "political maladministration, malfunctioning and maladjustment in Washington."

"Quite obviously, this administration is floundering—thrashing aimlessly and a bit desperately about—in the surging financial and economic currents of our times," Eisenhower declared.

"Its difficulty appears to stem primarily from an inadequate understanding of our American system—of how it really works, of the psychological, motivational

New Lows Registered By Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices were hammered to new 1962 lows again Friday.

Trading was heavy as two waves of selling, sandwiched around a feeble rally, drove prices of several market leaders down $2 and more a share.

Some losses were held to fractions. A few growth stocks breast the tide to post advances.

Leading industrial issues and utilities were hard hit, with many stocks, chemicals, drugs, airlines, aerospace, rubber and mail order retail stocks absorbing sizeable losses.

With turnover at 5.6 million shares, the ticker tape fell behind in reporting floor transactions, running as much as 10 minutes late in the morning and four minutes behind at the close.

On the basis of the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, an estimated $4.9 billion was slashed from the quoted value of "big board" stocks.

The AP average fell 3.40 to a low for the year of 202.50, with industrials down 5.00, rails down 1.50 and utilities down 1.80, all to 1962 lows. The over-all index hadn't been as low since Nov. 28, 1953 when it dipped to 201.90.

Also smashed to a new floor was the Dow Jones industrial average, at its farthest ebb since October 28, 1953.

The Dow-Jones reading dropped 11.30 to 539.19, a loss of 2.05 per cent. The Standard & Poor index of 500 stocks skidded 91 to 52.68.

Of 1,323 issues traded, 996 declined and 160 advanced. One high was recorded, by American investment, against 330 individual lows for the year.

Jonesboro Road Work Is Assured By Ray Burgess

Louisiana Highway Director Ray Burgess assured a public meeting Friday night in West Monroe that proposed work on the Jonesboro Road would continue as planned, regardless of the fate of a $60 million bond issue up for a vote November 6.

Responding to queries both before and after a prepared appeal for support in the election, the state official outlined a program of "complete rebuilding" along Louisiana 34, estimated to cost nearly $1 million. A part of the federal secondary road system, a share of the cost would be borne by federal funds.

Burgess presented a less encouraging picture, however, with regard to requested grading and elevation along the Arkansas Road and said the best hope of getting that work done rested with the passage of the bond issue.

Nevertheless, he would make no specific commitments in that area or elsewhere in the state where he said improvements were needed with equal urgency.

Speaking at 7 p.m. in the conference room of West Monroe's First National Bank, under sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce, the highway director offered encouragement in a Chamber project to build a boat landing on the Ouachita River.

"We're looking into the federal restrictions right now, as to the possibility for building such a landing here under the Interstate-20 bridge when it's completed," Burgess told Chamber President Eugene Scott.

Pegging his prepared remarks on an explanation of the coming bond election, Burgess told an audience of from 30 to 40 persons, including West Monroe Mayor J. Allan Norris and parish Police Jury President L. B. Pettit, that the economic well being of "the entire state hinges upon our highway system."

He emphasized repeatedly the bond sale would not entail further taxation. "The issue can be sold and the money used without any additional taxation. What we're asking is a continuation of our program."

Bond issues, he said, have been used to finance highway construction in the state for a period of about 30 years.

"What we do is bond a certain amount of the dedicated revenues on which we operate," Burgess explained. He equated it with borrowing against future revenues and said there was no way the revenues could be "undecided," but through a vote of the people.

The present measure, approved by the 1961 Legislature, will be submitted for a vote in the form of an amendment to the Louisiana Constitution.

BREAK DOWN

Expenditure of the $60 million has been broken down broadly to $21 million for use on primary highway systems, $18 million on farm to market roads, such as the Arkansas Road, $9 million on secondary roads, like the Jonesboro Road, $6 million for "urban extensions," described as similar to work along Stella Street and $6 million as aid to parishes.

Apportionment of money to the parishes, Burgess said, would be determined by the state's police juries "and I just don't want to get into that."

Turning back later to the Arkansas Road project, Burgess explained his hesitancy to make a commitment as based on the fact that the state alone would be required to foot the bill. "This is classified a farm to market road and as such exempted from federal participation in the cost of its repair. The state budget, as you know, has been pared."

"The best chance to get this work done is to pass our bond issue. One thing is for certain, if it's not passed, it's a cinch the improvement won't come."

But Burgess emphasized again, rebuilding of the Jonesboro Road from West Monroe to Eros will be done with federal cooperation, whatever the outcome.

Defending the bond issue, the highway director explained the $60 million could be allowed without any greater strain on the Department's bond redemption fund than presently exists.

"Many of our current bonds will be retired or reduced to the point that payments on them won't be increased even with the addition of $60 million."

Given a favorable vote Nov. 6, Burgess said, contracts will be let by January "or maybe as early as January of this year."

"Engineering studies have been underway for some time now and we know just about what we want to do, even though I'm not at liberty to say what that is. We cannot yield to sectional favoritism or political expediency."

"The highway director predicted completion all work to be financed through the $60 million within around five years."

Highway Department projects currently underway in the state amount to approximately $227 million, with the outlook for letting of an additional $100 million in contracts during the coming year.

Commenting on work along the Interstate-20, Burgess said the final contract for work between West Monroe and Shreveport, the Stella Street to South Fifth Street interchange, would be let late in September or October.

"You'll have a four-lane highway from the Ouachita River to Shreveport in a year and a half or less."

Burgess arrived in West Monroe from Baton Rouge shortly before 6 p.m. for a press conference in the office of Chamber Manager Eugene Smith. He will make an extended series of such appearances backing the bond election starting around Aug. 1.

Tax Liens Filed Against Gilbert

NEW YORK (AP)—Edward M. Gilbert, financier who fled to Brazil, owes the government $3,341,742 in federal income taxes, it was disclosed Friday.

The disclosure came as tax officials filed liens for this amount against any property Gilbert may possess.

Authorities listed taxes owed by Gilbert from 1958.

Gilbert fled to Brazil June 12 after admitting to the directors of the E. L. Bruce Co., which he headed, that he had withdrawn nearly $2 million of the firm's funds without authorization.

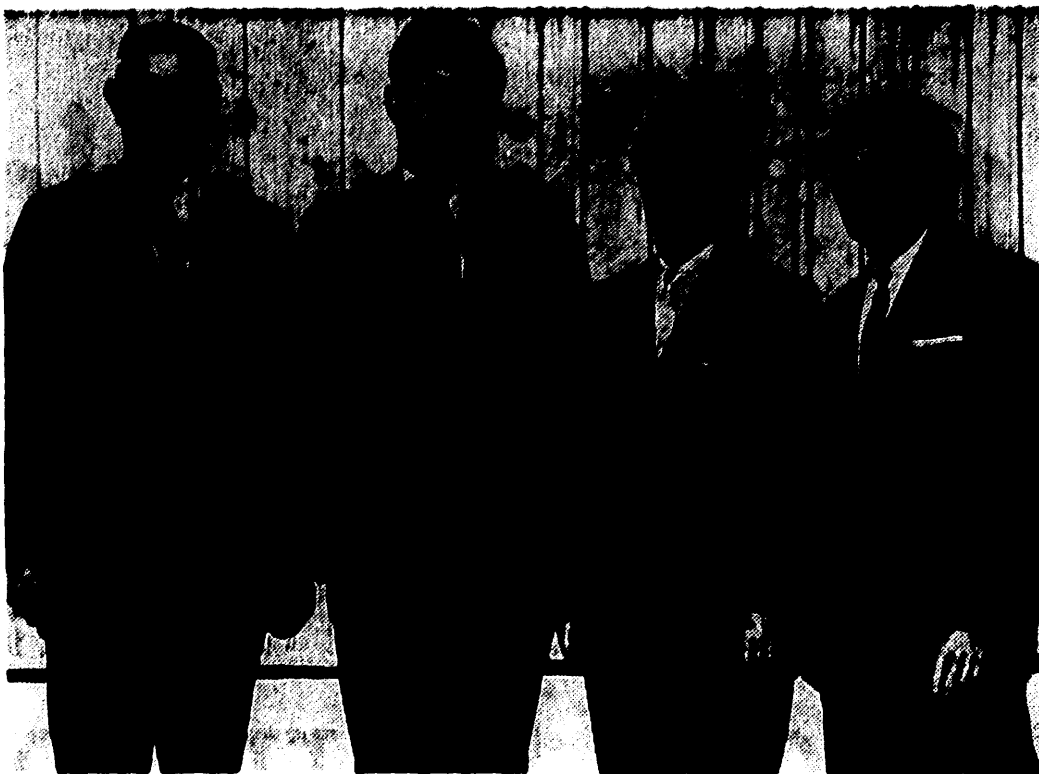

The firm manufactures flooring materials.

Pickets Stir Up Trouble At Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP)—For pickets professing nonviolent principles, a demonstration Friday at the Pentagon stirred up quite a bit of trouble.

About eight or 10 antimilitary demonstrators were picked up bodily by Pentagon police and carted off after they tried to distribute handbills.

It all started when about 25 pickets from a group called the Committee for Nonviolent Action assembled Friday morning about 50 feet in front of the Defense Department building bearing anti-air and anti-military placards.

The law permits orderly demonstrations, provided demonstrators keep their distance.

About 10 a.m., four of the pickets entered the tall, brown doors. Just inside, they were met by a number of policemen.

"Are we arrested?" one of the demonstrators asked.

"You are," an officer replied.

The four went quietly to a guardroom, where they were charged under a statute covering disorderly conduct.

Soon afterward, a group of their comrades started through lanes of parked cars toward the building and attempted to hand out green sheets of paper.

The police, by then about 30 strong, moved in to stop them. Copying the followers of Mahatma Gandhi, some of the demonstrators squatted on the roadway, but two policemen grasped each squatter and tugged and carried him to waiting station wagons.

The next act was played in a small courtroom on the first floor of the Pentagon—a place where traffic violators normally are tried.

There, 15 of the demonstrators—two of them girls—sat quietly as U.S. Commissioner Thomas Moncreux explained they were charged with unseemly and disorderly conduct near a federal building. Possible penalty: 30 days in jail and a $50 fine.

The prosecutor, MacDougal Rice, suggested they be freed on personal bond, pending trial.

Moncreux accepted the prosecutor's recommendation and said he

IN VOTE CAMPAIGN

House Speaker's Aid Not Wanted

BOSTON (AP)—State Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr., has requested his Uncle John—the speaker of the U.S. House—not to campaign for him in his contest with Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

McCormack is entering the open primary Sept. 18, after being defeated for endorsement for the nomination by Kennedy at the Democratic state convention June 9.

Speaker John W. McCormack said in Washington a few days after the convention he would was giving the group somewhat lenient treatment, in part because he believes they are sincere.

Trial was set for next Tuesday, and the demonstrators struggled out with hardly a sound.

But barely an hour later, Hugh Williams 19, of Waukon, Wash., appeared in front of the building again.

He stuffed handbills in both back pockets, grasped a sign and mounted the steps.

Once inside the door, Williams was grabbed immediately by a policeman and thrust into a small side room.

Meanwhile, Leonardo Shapiro, 16, of Lenox, Mass., followed Williams into the Pentagon. A policeman grasped Shapiro by the front of his belt and dragged him toward the small room. On the way, Shapiro fell or was knocked flat on his back.

After a few minutes, Williams was walked to a station wagon while Shapiro came along with two policemen holding him, one on each side, with one of his legs bumping down the stairs.

Bond of $50 was set for Williams and Shapiro but Pentagon police said they did not post it and were turned over to U.S. marshals for confinement until trial.

He said some of the press might try to make it a fight between the speaker of the House and the President, and he said: "I cannot take the slightest risk of jeopardizing the great fight for Democratic principles and the security of the nation in which you are presently engaged."

Secret Army Orders New Terror Acts

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—The western Algerian Secret Army Organization command ordered a new and perhaps more bloody fight Friday against independence for Algeria from France.

After the announcement an explosion and fire swept the Oran City Hall and gunfire rattled in the heart of that western city.

The order came from fugitive ex-Gen. Paul Gaudy in a pirate broadcast beamed at Oran. He said peace contacts with Moslem nationalists had failed.

The secret army in Algiers announced last Sunday it had reached agreement with the Moslems on a truce based on the inclusion of European settlers in Algerian security forces now being set up by Moslem nationalists who will rule after independence.

Gaudy described this peace pact as illusory and said his commandos would be given "freedom of action again." Before the truce, secret army commandos had been carrying out a scorched-earth campaign to level anything that might be economically helpful to the new Algerian regime.

Gaudy's announcement drowned official hopes for a deal that would spread peace from Algiers to the western Algerian cities where Europeans appear to resist independence with greater passion.

Before Gaudy's broadcast, five explosions roared out in Oran. A score of blasts rocked the eastern seaport of Bone Thursday night.

In Algiers during the day, two key Moslem leaders were gravely wounded by a hit-run machine-gunner attack on their car. The leaders had helped organize the reconciliation meetings with the Europeans. Some reports said the two leaders were shot by Moslems. The victims were known as Maj. Si Mohammed and Capt. Si Ali, probably pseudonyms. They had come from Tunis, headquarters of the Front of National Liberation—FLN.

Gaudy's broadcast followed by several hours publication of a letter by imprisoned ex-Gen. Raoul Salan who backed the accord between Algerian leader Jean Jacques Susini and Moslem nationalist Dr. Chehki Mostefai.

Salan, former head of the secret army, told the Europeans to profit from the possibility of peaceful existence in an independent Algeria.

But Gaudy, Salan's successor, ordered his commandos to "remain in place and accomplish their mission." He apparently referred to the campaign to turn Algeria into ruins before the Moslem takeover.

Gaudy said the secret army was unable to obtain satisfaction from Moslem spokesmen to form a European force capable of assuring the security of the Europeans.

But Friday afternoon, the Algerian Provisional Executive announced it had decided to recruit 225 Europeans for a special auxiliary police force in Algiers. The executive is doing the groundwork for the takeover of the gov-

IN LAKE PROVIDENCE

Reverse 'Rides' Set From Area

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special)

A group of Lake Providence citizens Friday said it was organizing a local movement patterned after one in New Orleans which originated "reverse freedom rides" to send Negroes out of the South on one-way trips.

The news came three days after disclosure of the resignation of East Carroll Parish Registrar of Voters Cecil Manning. Manning quit following a federal court injunction to block any "voter discrimination" in his office.

There was no report Friday, however, of any link between the two occurrences in this northeast Louisiana town.

Lake Providence real estate man J. R. Dillard said he and others met with George Singelmann of New Orleans Thursday in Baton Rouge, head of the Citizens' Council of Greater New Orleans, originator of the rides.

Dillard said Singelmann told him that several cities outside the South were requesting rides. Singelmann said someone in Pocatello, Idaho had advertised last month for farm labor.

Dillard, Lake Providence Citizens' Council, said the group would work in conjunction with the Citizens' Council here, of which he is a member.

The Lake Providence group reported that it had raised $1800. Dillard said the group expects to look for applicants for the one-way rides early next week.

Meanwhile Singelmann announced departure times for 11 Negroes leaving on one-way trips Monday from New Orleans for Idaho, Massachusetts, and California.

Two Negroes, he said, were scheduled to take a 1:15 p.m. Greyhound bus for Pocatello; one was due to leave at 3:45 p.m. by Greyhound for Hyannis, Mass.; and a Negro mother with seven children planned to leave on the Southern Pacific 10 p.m. train for Los Angeles.

West Monroe Civic Clubs Form Council

Charles Calhoun, West Monroe Jaycee president, was named Friday night, as chairman of the newly formed West Monroe Civic Club Council. Jack Young, representing West Monroe Optimists, was elected co-chairman.

Formed under sponsorship of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, the council will coordinate the efforts of the city's seven civic clubs in "pushing projects for community betterment," according to Calhoun.

The new president named a nominating committee at last night's session in Chamber offices. To include Fairrell Ketchell of the West Monroe Civilians as well as Young and himself.

Calhoun expressed the council's immediate interest in working with other organizations toward acquisition in the city of a municipal swimming pool and boat landing.

The two top officers of each of the city's civic clubs are automatic members of the council, he said.

COMMERCIAL ARSON ON RISE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Arson to collect insurance is increasing and many professional firebugs are involved, according to Insurance Information Institute.

Before 1955, the institute said, nearly all incendiary fires were started by juveniles, vandals or mentally disturbed persons. But in the past three years, the activities of the professional arsonist have increased steadily.

The auxiliary police hitherto consisted only of Moslems. About 5,000 Moslem policemen are expected to be on duty in Algiers by the July 1 self-determination vote. The time necessary to recruit and train Europeans would make it virtually impossible for them to be on duty before the referendum.

22nd Test Shot Fired In Pacific

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 22nd nuclear test of the current U.S. series in the Pacific was fired Friday.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department said in a joint announcement that the device was dropped from an airplane and detonated in the vicinity of Christmas Island, with an intermediate yield.

That term is used for an explosion with a force ranging between that of 20,000 and two million tons of TNT.

IN VOTE CAMPAIGN

House Speaker's Aid Not Wanted

BOSTON (AP)—State Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr., has requested his Uncle John—the speaker of the U.S. House—not to campaign for him in his contest with Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

McCormack is entering the open primary Sept. 18, after being defeated for endorsement for the nomination by Kennedy at the Democratic state convention June 9.

Speaker John W. McCormack said in Washington a few days after the convention he would campaign for his nephew.

Kennedy is the youngest brother of President Kennedy.

Both the President, and the third brother, U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, have said they will take no part in Edward's campaign for the nomination.

The President said at a news conference in Washington, however, that he expects to campaign for the Democratic nominees after the primaries.

The speaker is to give the principal address Sunday night at a dinner in honor of State Executive Councillor Raymond J. Sullivan, D-Springfield, at a country club in Westfield, near Springfield.

Atty. Gen. McCormack also was scheduled to attend the dinner, but his office said Friday he has other commitments that day. He will drop in at the dinner, if he can, a spokesman said.

Sullivan was one of the chief McCormack supporters in the Kennedy-McCormack convention tussle.

Atty. Gen. McCormack wrote a letter to his uncle asking him to refrain from campaigning.

He said he had two reasons. First of all, he said in the letter, the issue is clear—"it is a question of the qualification of the candidates, as between Ted Kennedy and what he presently represents, and Ed McCormack and what he presently is."

He said he wants to keep the issue clear, and if his uncle joined in the campaign, it must be obscured.

He said some of the press might try to make it a fight between the speaker of the House and the President, and he said: "I cannot take the slightest risk of jeopardizing the great fight for Democratic principles and the security of the nation in which you are presently engaged."

Secret Army Orders New Terror Acts

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—The western Algerian Secret Army Organization command ordered a new and perhaps more bloody fight Friday against independence for Algeria from France.

After the announcement an explosion and fire swept the Oran City Hall and gunfire rattled in the heart of that western city.

The order came from fugitive ex-Gen. Paul Gardy in a pirate broadcast beamed at Oran. He said peace contacts with Moslem nationalists had failed.

The secret army in Algiers announced last Sunday it had reached agreement with the Moslems on a truce based on the inclusion of European settlers in Algerian security forces now being set up by Moslem nationalists who will rule after independence.

Gardy described this peace pact as illusory and said his commands would be given "freedom of action again." Before the truce, secret army commands had been carrying out a scorched-earth campaign to level anything that might be economically helpful to the new Algerian regime.

Gardy's announcement drowned official hopes for a deal that would spread peace from Algiers to the western Algerian cities where Europeans appear to resist independence with greater passion.

Before Gardy's broadcast, five explosions roared out in Oran. A score of blasts rocked the eastern seaport of Bone Thursday night.

In Algiers during the day, two key Moslem leaders were gravely wounded by a hit-run machine-gun attack on their car. The leaders had helped organize the reconciliation meetings with the Europeans. Some reports said the two leaders were shot by Moslems. The victims were known as Maj. Si Mohammed and Capt. Si Ali, probably pseudonyms. They had come from Tunis, headquarters of the Front of National Liberation—FLN.

Gardy's broadcast followed by several hours publication of a letter by imprisoned ex-Gen. Raoul Salan who backed the accord between Algiers leader Jean Jacques Susini and Moslem nationalist Dr. Cheikh Mostefa.

Salan, former head of the secret army, told the Europeans to profit from the possibility of peaceful existence in an independent Algeria.

But Gardy, Salan's successor, ordered his commands to "remain in place and accomplish their mission." He apparently referred to the campaign to turn Algeria into ruins before the Moslem takeover.

Gardy said the secret army was unable to obtain satisfaction from Moslem spokesmen to form a European force capable of assuring the security of the Europeans.

But Friday afternoon, the Algerian Provisional Executive announced it had decided to recruit 225 Europeans for a special auxiliary police force in Algiers. The executive is doing the groundwork for the takeover of the gov-

IN LAKE PROVIDENCE

Reverse 'Rides' Set From Area

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special)

A group of Lake Providence citizens Friday said it was organizing a local movement patterned after one in New Orleans which originated "reverse freedom rides" to send Negroes out of the South on one-way trips.

The news came three days after disclosure of the resignation of East Carroll Parish Registrar of Voters Cecil Manning. Manning quit following a federal court injunction to block any "voter discrimination" in his office.

There was no report Friday, however, of any link between the two occurrences in this northeast Louisiana town.

Lake Providence real estate man J. R. Dillard said he and others met with George Singelmann of New Orleans Thursday in Baton Rouge, head of the Citizens' Council of Greater New Orleans, originator of the rides.

Dillard said Singelmann told him that several cities outside the South were requesting rides. Singelmann said someone in Pocatello, Idaho had advertised last month for farm labor.

Dillard, Lake Providence Citizens' Council, said the group would work in conjunction with the Citizens' Council here, of which he is a member.

The Lake Providence group reported that it had raised $1600. Dillard said the group expects to look for applicants for the one-way rides early next week.

Meanwhile, Singelmann announced departure times for 11 Negroes leaving on one-way trips Monday from New Orleans for Idaho, Massachusetts, and California.

Two Negroes, he said, were scheduled to take a 1:15 p.m. Greyhound bus for Pocatello; one was due to leave at 3:45 p.m. by Greyhound for Hyannis, Mass.; and a Negro mother with seven children planned to leave on the Southern Pacific 10 p.m. train for Los Angeles.

West Monroe Civic Clubs Form Council

Charles Calhoun, West Monroe Jaycee president, was named Friday night, as chairman of the newly formed West Monroe Civic Club Council. Jack Young, representing West Monroe Optimists, was elected co-chairman.

Formed under sponsorship of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, the council will coordinate the efforts of the city's seven civic clubs in "pushing projects for community betterment," according to Calhoun.

The new president named a nominating committee at last night's session in Chamber offices, to include Fairrell Ketchell of the West Monroe Civilians as well as Young and himself.

Calhoun expressed the council's immediate interest in working with other organizations toward acquisition in the city of a municipal swimming pool and boat landing.

The two top officers of each of the city's civic clubs are automatic members of the council, he said.

COMMERCIAL ARSON ON RISE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Arson to collect insurance is increasing and many professional firebugs are involved, according to Insurance Information Institute.

Before 1955, the institute said, nearly all incendiary fires were started by juveniles, vandals or mentally disturbed persons. But in the past three years, the activities of the professional arsonist have increased steadily.

The auxiliary police hitherto consisted only of Moslems. About 5,000 Moslem policemen are expected to be on duty in Algiers by the July 1 self-determination vote. The time necessary to recruit and train Europeans would make it virtually impossible for them to be on duty before the referendum.

22nd Test Shot Fired In Pacific

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 22nd nuclear test of the current U.S. series in the Pacific was fired Friday.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department said in a joint announcement that the device was dropped from an airplane and detonated in the vicinity of Christmas Island, with an intermediate yield.

That term is used for an explosion with a force ranging between that of 20,000 and two million tons of TNT.

to see that (sic) it can be as tough with labor as it has been with steel." This was a reference to White House action last April that prevented a steel price increase.

Crown said contract talks with the airlines had broken off completely.

"Our proposal for the settlement of the current disputes has been rejected by the carriers," Brown said. "Collective bargaining has broken off completely while the carriers wait for the government to try to bludgeon us into a settlement."

The heart of the two-year-old dispute between the engineers and the airlines, as well as the Air Line Pilots Association, AFL-CIO, is: how to reduce the four-man cockpit crews of jet airliners to the three men recommended by said.

He said President Kennedy requires such a license on his own plane and so does the Military Air Transport Service. "We will not be a party to any deal which gives Mr. John Q. Public one iota less of a safe trip than the highest government officials," he said.

Brown said that the proposal dealing with a possible unification of the engineers and pilots unions "represents a complete abdication to the pilots of our representative rights."

The union previously objected to a merger of the unions the training given by the airlines and 3,000 flight engineers would be swallowed by the 14,000 pilots.

Jackson Attacks Adcock Measure

Jackson's contention that "certain people" wanted to remove him.

"My only interest in this legislation is taking the education system out of politics as much as possible," Adcock said.

"I want to repeat that Mr. Jackson was an educator and a very able one when he first became superintendent," he said. "But he has now become a politician and I might say a very able politician."

Adcock said his bill was "aimed at preventing another politician from taking over this machine" after Jackson runs for governor.

He referred to rumors that William J. Dodd, president of the State Board of Education, is considering running for state superintendent of schools.

"I don't see how any conscientious Senator can oppose my bill in view of the political mess that our public education system has gotten into in this state," Adcock said.

His bill was made the special order of the day for the Monday session.

Youth Charged In Coed Slaying

BOSTON (AP)—Walter Schille, husky, clean-cut University of Massachusetts junior, was held on a murder charge Friday in the death of his pretty coed girlfriend.

He told police, "She didn't love me as much as I loved her."

The 20-year-old student showed no emotion in District Court as he was held without bail in the shooting of Josephine Anne (Joy) Iannello, 19, who had just completed her second year at Framingham Teachers College.

The fathers of both sat silent at the brief arraignment. Friends for 15 years, they embraced in silent tears Thursday night when they heard of the shooting.

Josephine's father, Carmello, who runs a photographic studio, seemed stunned.

He said: "He was the nicest boy in the neighborhood." And he added later: "I know he killed my daughter, but I can't feel anything against him."

Jury Refuses To Indict In Mercy Slaying

NEW YORK (UPI)—A grand jury Friday refused to indict Murray Mandell, 58, a tailor who stabbed his wife to death because he could not stand seeing her suffer with cancer.

The mercy killing took place at the couple's home last April 16. Mandell tried to kill himself by slashing his wrists.

"I couldn't stand to see her in agony day after day and night after night," he told police.

After he stabbed her, he put his wedding certificate, a deed to a cemetery plot and his will on a kitchen table. Then he turned the jets of a gas stove on and slashed his wrists. A neighbor smelled the gas and found him unconscious.

Mandell was taken to a hospital in critical condition, but survived. The grand jury action brought the case to a close.

Mandell and his wife Dorothy, 50, had been married 26 years. She had been ill with cancer for two years.

Philippines Claim Borneo Ownership

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—President Diosdado Macapagal filed formal claim Friday to sovereignty and ownership of British North Borneo, and proposed that the dispute be settled by negotiation.

The British Foreign Office in London promptly announced Britain "would feel bound to resist" the claim.

Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaya, chief architect of a plan to merge North Borneo in a new federation of Malaysia, said he was not perturbed by the claim to the territory with its rich timber and agricultural resources. However the move could seriously hamper the merger.

North Borneo, 29,387 square miles from the nearest Philippine islands.

The dispute centers on the about one-tenth of the area of Philippine claim that the Sultan of Sulu-Sulu is now Philippine territory—merely leased North Borneo to the private British North Borneo Co. in 1878.

The British say the old sultan sold it for $5,000 a year in perpetuity for himself and his heirs. The company turned the territory over to the British government in 1946. It is now a crown colony.

President Macapagal announced his action at a news conference after months of study. He read a note that was handed to British Ambassador John Pilcher. Replying to a British note of May 25, Macapagal denied the Philippines claim might open a Pandora's box of territorial claims by other southeast Asian nations and impair the area's unity and resistance to communism.

Both Britain and the Philippines are members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

The North Borneo claim has been advanced half-heartedly over a period of several years.

The Philippine House of Representatives in April passed a resolution asking the president to take the necessary legal steps to reclaim the territory.

North Borneo occupies only about one-tenth of the area of the world's third largest island, Indonesia holds more than two-thirds of the island. The British colonies of Brunei and Sarawak, on the northwest coast, occupy the rest.

Truck, Garage Hit By Explosion

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Officers Friday investigated a dynamite blast which demolished a pickup truck and a garage at the home of C. E. Johnson nine miles west of Glenmora.

Johnson is a school board member from Ward 6 near Glenmora.

Deputies said seven or eight sticks of dynamite had been placed next to the garage. The blast took place at 11:45 p.m. Thursday. It also knocked out windows in Johnson's house and a utility building.

No one was injured.

Fifth District Highway Engineer J. Ellis Ross said Friday the new Bayou D'Arbonne bridge under construction on the White's Ferry Road near West Monroe would be open "within two to three months."

"All we have left to do," Ross said, "is the pouring of hand rails, getting down our stabilized base along the approaches and surface treating of the approaches themselves."

Work was begun on the bridge about a year ago, with the cost expected to come to around $250,000.

Second Louisiana Escapade Captured

NEW ROADS, La. (AP)—State Police Lt. L. M. Walker Friday captured the second Louisiana convict who escaped last Tuesday from a prison work truck.

The man seized was Thomas Pickard, Columbia, Tenn., serving 15 years for armed robbery in New Orleans.

Pickard and Lamar Brewton, El Dorado, Ark., fled Tuesday from the 18,000-acre state penitentiary at Angola, about 10 miles north of here and on the opposite side of the Mississippi River.

Warden Victor Walker said the sheriff's office at Orange, Texas, informed him Wednesday Brewton was in jail at Deweyville, Texas, where he was being held for Walker.

Lt. Walker said he picked up Pickard at a New Roads filling station after investigating reports a stranger had been seen in the area between New Roads and Morganza.

and economic factors that make it ebb and flow.

Eisenhower revived the "mess in Washington" phrase which he used in winning the presidency in 1952. He told the Republicans they would never succumb to a "sterile negativism," and went on: "Mere resistance and complaint, and criticism of the mess back in Washington, will never be enough."

"Happily, we have programs that are truly constructive, and a leadership competent to serve the nation's needs."

"So starting tonight, let's set out on an unremitting campaign, with all our talents, all our numbers, all our resources, to make certain that victory will be ours—victory in 1962 — and then, victory in 1964."

Eisenhower applauded Thursday's house defeat of the Kennedy farm bill, a major setback for the administration, as a healthful return to freedom in the farming segment of the economy.

"We believe that whatever would further restrict the farmer's freedom is headed in the wrong direction," he said.

"Thank heaven that viewpoint prevailed yesterday in the House of Representatives. I salute Charlie Halleck (Ind.) and Charlie Hoeven (Iowa) and other House Republicans, and the band of courageous Democrats who joined them in defeating the legislative monstrosity that was based upon a ruthless concept of ruling or ruining American agriculture."

The half-hour talk embraced every major Kennedy program in its denunciatory sweep — health care for the aged, the proposed Jan. 1 tax cuts, standby authority for public works, and vast expenditures for what Eisenhower called low-priority space projects.

Eisenhower said it required neither exaggeration nor stirring rhetoric to take issue with "the realities facing our country today," and went on: "Our national economy has become uncertain, fearful, ill-at-ease."

"Stock prices have plummeted by scores of billions, to the consternation of the investing public."

"Persistent unemployment, in spite of promises of the late campaign, remains as in past years a cancerous problem in many areas."

"The nation's rate of economic growth, so bitterly criticized two years ago, falls behind the rate of prior years."

"The adverse balance of payments and outflow of gold are still gnawing concerns, and if present policies persist, could grow worse."

"Federal spending is still pushing rapidly upward. Revenues fall short. Deficits grow larger. Confidence, at home and abroad, weakens."

"These are ugly splashes in the beautiful picture of the economic future painted for us in 1960 by confident New Frontiersmen. Today these blemishes can no longer be blinked or ignored."

Repeatedly the former chief executive twitted the administration for what he described as its claimed sophistication and academic proficiency.

"But its action have started the whole nation to question its ability to comprehend," he went on.

"Even in its speeches, which are publicly advertised toward business, menacing language somehow has to appear."

"Indeed, the official administration posture can be interpreted only as: 'Business, get friendly—or else!'"

"Additionally, the administration is publicly disgruntled with the entire medical profession, and has apparently persuaded itself that doctors are against people."

"We find newspaper blacklisted for failing to handle news White House style. We hear that reporters are verbally spanked for writing critical passages."

"The administration even annoys a growing faction within its own party, including many Southerners in the Congress."

Eisenhower described as part of the scolding process President Kennedy's references in his Yale University speech last week to "myths and incantations." Eisenhower noted that Americans were urged to stop living by clichés, and said one alleged cliché was "the virtue of the balanced budget."

"Perhaps what is now called sophistication will indeed destroy all hope of a balanced budget," the former president said.

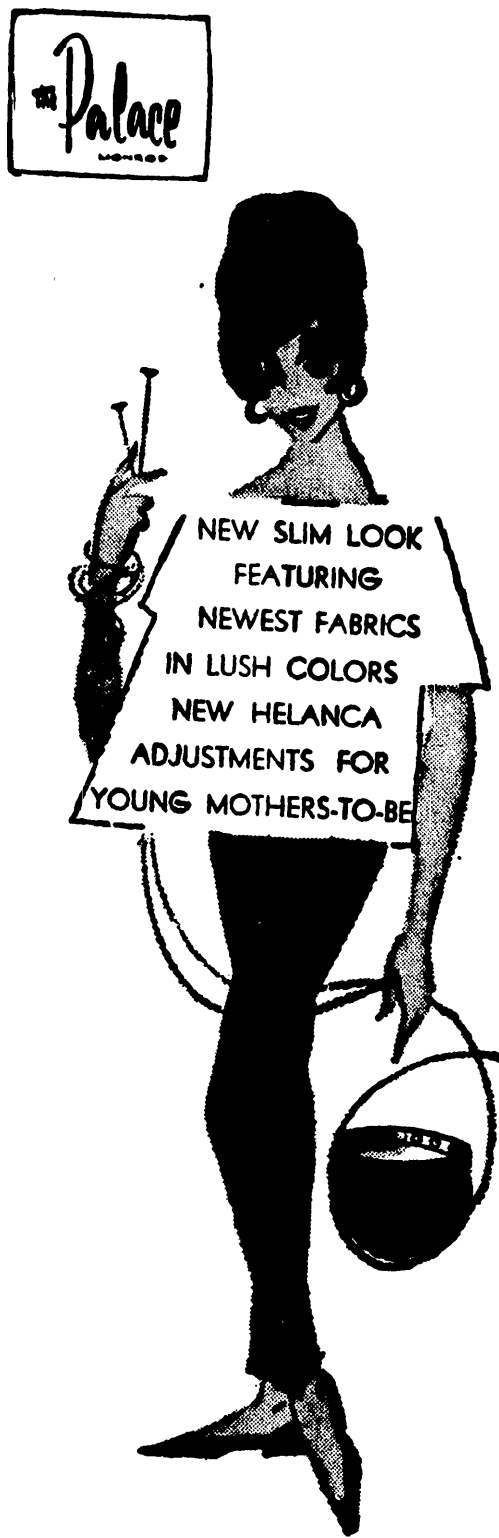

"But Republicans will continue to believe that it is bad for America to stop practicing frugality, prudence and self-discipline."

"The administration's definition of sophistication, he said, seems to include a planned economy—that is, the central government should undertake to fix prices, determine the appropriate level of profits, control wages directly or indirectly, and otherwise manipulate and guide the economy."

"Recent events suggest that it also means that government has the right to use the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service, the Defense Department, the Justice Department, as well as the White House, to control labor-management affairs, especially to dictate the economic decisions of management," he said.

Eisenhower spoke in mock admiration of what he described as administration plans to increase spending and still simultaneously cut taxes next year.

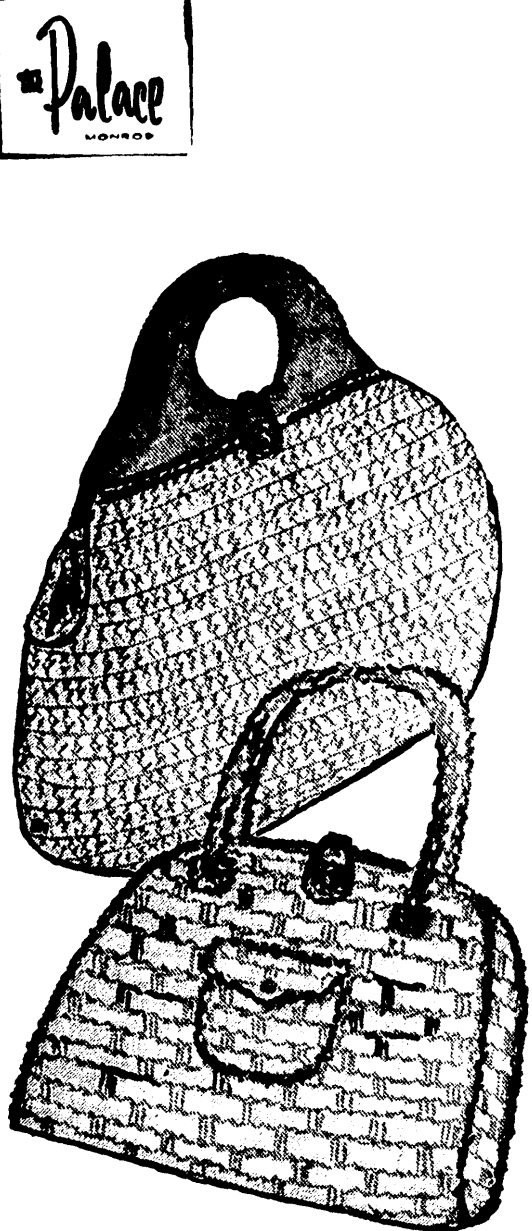

"Here is political paradise," he exclaimed. "It suggests that only we can get the government to spend fast enough, we can soon do away with taxes altogether."

"Recent events suggest that it also means that government has the right to use the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service, the Defense Department, the Justice Department, as well as the White House, to control labor-management affairs, especially to dictate the economic decisions of management," he said.

Eisenhower spoke in mock admiration of what he described as administration plans to increase spending and still simultaneously cut taxes next year.

"Here is political paradise," he exclaimed. "It suggests that if only we can get the government to spend fast enough, we can soon area between New Roads and do away with taxes altogether."

NOW BRITISH COLONY

Philippines Claim Borneo Ownership

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—President Diosdado Macapagal filed formal claim Friday to sovereignty and ownership of British North Borneo, and proposed that the dispute be settled by negotiation.

The British Foreign Office in London promptly announced Britain "would feel bound to resist" the claim.

Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaysia, chief architect of a plan to merge North Borneo in a new federation of Malaysia, said he was not perturbed by the claim to the territory with its rich timber and agricultural resources. However the move could seriously hamper the merger.

North Borneo, 29,387 square miles from the nearest Philippine islands.

The dispute centers on the Philippine claim that the Sultan of Sulu—Sulu is now Philippine territory—merely leased North Borneo to the private British North Borneo Co., in 1878.

The British said the old sultan sold it for $5,000 a year in perpetuity for himself and his heirs. The company turned the territory over to the British government in 1946. It is now a crown colony.

President Macapagal announced his action at a news conference after months of study. He read a note that was handed to British Ambassador John Pilcher. Replying to a British note of May 25, Macapagal denied the Philippines claim might open a Pandora's box of territorial claims by other southeast Asian nations and impair the area's unity and resistance to communism.

Both Britain and the Philippines are members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

The North Borneo claim has been advanced half-heartedly over a period of several years.

The Philippine House of Representatives in April passed a resolution asking the president to take the necessary legal steps to recover the territory.

North Borneo occupies only about one-tenth of the area of Borneo, the world's third largest island. Indonesia holds more than two-thirds of the island. The British colonies of Brunei and Sarawak, on the northwest coast, occupy the rest.

Truck, Garage Hit By Explosion

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Officers Friday investigated a dynamite blast which demolished a pick-up truck and a garage at the home of C. E. Johnson nine miles west of Glenmora.

Johnson is a school board member from Ward 6 near Glenmora.

Deputies said seven or eight sticks of dynamite had been placed next to the garage. The blast took place at 11:45 p.m. Thursday. It also knocked out windows in Johnson's house and a utility building.

No one was injured.

Bloodhounds brought from the state prison at Angola tracked a trail through a field to a highway where it ended.

Bridge To Open In 2, 3 Weeks

Fifth District Highway Engineer J. Ellis Ross said Friday the new Bayou D'Arbonne bridge under construction on the White's Ferry Road near West Monroe would be open "within two to three months."

"All we have left to do," Ross said, "is the pouring of hand rails, getting down our stabilized base along the approaches and surface treating of the approaches themselves."

Work was begun on the bridge about a year ago, with the cost expected to come to around $250,000.

Second Louisiana Escapee Captured

NEW ROADS, La. (AP)—State Police Lt. L. M. Walker Friday captured the second Louisiana convict who escaped last Tuesday from a prison work truck.

The man seized was Thomas Pickard, Columbia, Tenn., serving 15 years for armed robbery in New Orleans.

Pickard and Lamar Brewton, El Dorado, Ark., fled Tuesday from the 18,000-acre state penitentiary at Angola, about 10 miles north of here and on the opposite side of the Mississippi River.

Warden Victor Walker said the sheriff's office at Orange, Texas, informed him Wednesday Brewton was in jail at Deweyville, Texas, where he was being held for Walker.

Lt. Walker said he picked up Pickard at a New Roads filling station after investigating reports a stranger had been seen in the area between New Roads and nearby Morganza.

Jackson Attacks Adcock Measure

Adcock steered the bill to the floor of the Senate by recommending it to the Senate Judiciary Committee where Sen. Michael O'Keefe of New Orleans said Jackson's first platform included a promise to make the position appointive.

"I never advocated that," Jackson said.

Adcock, meantime, scoffed at

Jackson's contention that "certain people" wanted to remove him.

"My only interest in this legislation is taking the education system out of politics as much as possible," Adcock said.

"I want to repeat that Mr. Jackson was an educator and a very able one when he first became superintendent," he said. "But he has now become a politician and I might say a very able politician."

Adcock said his bill was "aimed at preventing another politician from taking over this machine" after Jackson runs for governor.

He referred to rumors that William J. Dodd, president of the State Board of Education, is considering running for state superintendent of schools.

"I don't see how any conscientious Senator can oppose my bill in view of the political mess that our public education system has gotten into in this state," Adcock said.

His bill was made the special order of the day for the Monday session.

Jury Refuses To Indict In Mercy Slaying

NEW YORK (UPI)—A grand jury Friday refused to indict Murray Mandell, 58, a tailor who stabbed his wife to death because he could not stand seeing her suffer with cancer.

The mercy killing took place at the couple's home last April 16. Mandell tried to kill himself by slashing his wrists.

"I couldn't stand to see her in agony day after day and night after night," he told police.

After he stabbed her, he put his wedding certificate, a deed to a cemetery plot and his will on a kitchen table. Then he turned the jets of a gas stove on and slashed his wrists. A neighbor smelled the gas and found him unconscious.

Mandell was taken to a hospital in critical condition, but survived. The grand jury action brought the case to a close.

Mandell and his wife Dorothy, 50, had been married 26 years. She had been ill with cancer for two years.

BOSTON (AP)—Walter Schille, husky, clean-cut University of Massachusetts junior, was held on a murder charge Friday in the death of his pretty coed girl friend.

He told police, "She didn't love me as much as I loved her."

to see that (sic) it can be as tough with labor as it has been with steel." This was a reference to White House action last April that prevented a steel price increase.

Crown said contract talks with the airlines had broken off completely.

"Our proposal for the settlement of the current disputes has been rejected by the carriers," Brown said. "Collective bargaining has broken off completely while the carriers wait for the government to try to bludgeon us into a settlement."

The heart of the two-year-old dispute between the engineers and the airlines, as well as the Air Line Pilots Association, AFL-CIO, is: how to reduce the four-man cockpit crews of jet airliners to the three men recommended by a presidential advisory commission. Neither the engineers union nor the pilots union wants to lose a man.

The proposed TWA settlement provides that engineers would learn to become pilots through training given by the airlines and that engineers would be given preference over pilots for the third seat in the jet cockpit.

"We have studied the proposed settlement with great care and with the hope that we could find it completely unacceptable."

He continued: "For two years we have strived for a just and peaceful settlement. We have reached the limit of our patience. We regret the inconvenience that the public will suffer."

In elaborating on the objections to the TWA proposals, Brown said that the requirement of a mechanic's license for a flight engineer "is absolutely essential to air safety and we will not give it up."

He said President Kennedy requires such a license on his own plane and so does the Military Air Transport Service. "We will not be a party to any deal which gives Mr. John Q. Public one iota less of a safe trip than the highest government officials," he said.

Brown said that the proposal dealing with a possible unification of the engineers and pilots unions "represents a complete abdication to the pilots of our representative rights."

The union previously objected that in a merger of the unions the 3,000 flight engineers would be swallowed by the 14,000 pilots.

Crime And Garbage

"The public will go into a rage if a garbage collection is skipped but it will take understaffing of its police force rather lightly."

That statement was made in a magazine article written by Samuel Grafton.

"It is this public apathy," said Dr. James J. Brennan of Michigan State University's School of Police Administration, that is partly responsible for the serious breakdown of law and "order in the United States."

While much of the South has kept crime under control and, in some instances, has succeeded in lowering its incidence, crime is rampant in the bigger cities of the north and east and in some big western cities.

In articles carried by magazines, little, if any, mention is ever made of the effect of integration or the migration of Negroes from the south to the north on the crime rate, yet there is a definite connection. There can be little doubt that President Kennedy's sponsoring of millions of dollars to combat juvenile delinquency stemmed from the staggering increase in the crime rate in the cities into which Negroes from the south have poured in their search for the promised land dangled before them by northern politicians.

In the city of Boston in the president's own state of Massachusetts, there is virtually a state of terror. In Grafton's article is the following statement:

"... Comparatively few women dare to venture out alone in Boston after dark; some won't even answer the doorbell."

One angry Bostonian was quoted as saying: "It is unsafe to walk late at night alone in many sections of south Boston, the west end, north end, Roxbury and Dorchester and also in Boston Common."

On July 21 last year, blood smeared the city's streets when a rash of muggings, brawls and accidents sent 88 persons to the Boston City Hospital alone.

Commenting further on the crime situation, the article said:

"The cab has become a small, roving fortress in the endless war. In areas of doubtful safety, such as Manhattan's upper west side in New York, it is not at all uncommon to take a taxi for a single block from the subway to his apartment. A St. Louis chef takes a cab home every night. He used to drive his own car but he sold it because he was afraid to walk from the garage behind his house to the front door."

"The taxicab in which the more affluent citizen tries to ride through his problem presents its own problems. So many Boston cab drivers have been sluggish from behind that many now insist on screens to separate them from the rear seats. Authorities in New York periodically discuss bullet-proof partitions for taxicabs, foot-controlled red blinker lights that drivers could operate during hold-ups or mobile telephones linked directly with police headquarters."

Normal, freedom-loving Americans are said to have accepted casually a situation in which a fear of crime partly denies them freedom.

Just outside Chicago a middle-aged filling station attendant refused one night to check a customer's tires. "If I bend down, you could hit me on the head," he said, without rancor. "You're welcome to check the tires yourself, though."

Contempt for law, order and common decency was shown last February when a bus to San Francisco went over an icy embankment. Well-dressed motorists stopped their cars and went through the wreck, lifting jewelry and wallets from the victims.

The article stated that every 17 seconds a serious crime is committed in the United States. Between 1956 and 1960, figures showed, 237 policemen were slaughtered in this country. Juvenile arrests for larceny rose 61 per cent in five years and sex offenses went up 41 per cent. Crime in United States cities of more than 25,000 jumped 14 per cent in 1960 and rose two per cent more in 1961. There were 2,525 attacks on New York police in 1961.

Commenting further on the danger zones in big cities, the article said:

"Engraved in the mind of almost every big-city American is a map of neighborhoods in which it is not safe to walk at night."

"No Chicagoan in his right mind would dream of strolling at night through Grant Park, along the downtown lakefront. And the New Yorker who used to sleep on the grass in Central Park on hot nights would as soon take a cosy nap on the East Berlin sidewalk with an American flag in his hand."

"Crime in the United States is growing at four times the rate of the population and now costs us $60 million a day."

Attorney General Robert Kennedy, in what appears to be a sensible position, blames the increase in crime to a large extent on the public's support of the crime syndicates. He said:

"What's wrong with a $2 bet. That frequently - raised question might just as well read: 'What's wrong with a multimillion-dollar narcotics ring or widespread prostitution, or a corrupt mayor?' The $2 bet is the key to all evils, for it bankrolls the underworld. The $2 bet doesn't stop in the hands of the small-time bookie at the corner cigar store. Ultimately, it is fed to big-time 'lay-off' gamblers who use their huge gambling profits to finance racketeering ventures—and, worst of all, to corrupt local officials. . . . The only lasting solution will come when people everywhere realize their own responsibilities to abide by the law."

What has brought about this terrible increase in the rate of crime? A surprisingly large number of police chiefs talk about religion.

"To keep the peace," says Police Commissioner Allen N. Brown of Philadelphia, "you need some other force besides policemen. Something awesome."

"I see a general falling away from religious practice in this country," said William H. Parker, chief of police in Los Angeles. "I do not see how we are to achieve self-mastery without religious direction and religious motivation. . . ."

People throughout the whole United States can hardly fail to be staggered by the seriousness of the whole crime situation. Nevertheless, there are several things which the people in the Twin Cities area and in some other areas of the south can ponder seriously and be thankful for.

One is that we are comparatively free from terror. There are few places we fear to go and women are usually safe on the streets at night.

The south generally has adhered to religion more closely than the other areas of the country.

This is conclusive evidence that religious people should fight against elimination of religion from public schools. This does not mean that denominationalism or certain religious beliefs should be taught but it does mean students should be taught that there is a Supreme Being and that there are right and wrong ways to live.

FCC Is In Kennedy's Hair

President Caught In Cross-Fire Of Two Powerful Groups In Naming Successor To John Cross

The stormy - embattled Federal Communications Commission is again in President Kennedy's much - ruffled hair.

This time it's a backstage hassle over Commissioner John Cross.

The seven - year term of the Arkansas Democrat expires the end of this month, and the President is finding himself on an exceedingly uncomfortable spot trying to decide what to do about that.

He is caught in a hectic cross-fire between two powerful Democratic groups laying claim to this patronage plum, as follows:

Backing Cross for another term - Arkansas' entire congressional delegation, which includes four major committee chairmen in charge of some of the most important aspects of the President's legislative program. Flouting these chairmen on patronage is no light matter, as the President, under the law, Cross retains his job until a successor is named. So the President is not under immediate compulsion to replace Cross.

The President can wait until fall after Congress has gone home and his legislative program is no longer dangling in suspense.

Cross, appointed by President Eisenhower, is a hard-working but little - known FCC Commissioner. According to friends of Minow, he doesn't consider Cross sufficiently "dynamic and broad-gauged."

Cox, younger than Cross and a malodorous Billie Sol Estes scandal, and Senator J. William Fulbright, head of the Foreign Relations Committee, with authority over the multi-billion dollar foreign aid budget that is under heavy attack.

Backing Kenneth Cox, chief of the Communications Commission's Broadcast Bureau - Senator Warren Magnuson, Washington State, head of the Commerce Committee, which has jurisdiction over the communications satellite bill and appointments to the FCC; FCC Chairman Newton Minow, whom insiders are crediting with demanding Cross' replacement on pain of quitting himself.

They are saying Minow is insisting Cross must go and that Cox should succeed him.

Outcome of this exceptional tug-of-war is conjectural. Best guess is that Kennedy will sidestep a decision until after Congress quits. Under the law, Cross retains his job until a successor is named. So the President is not under immediate compulsion to replace Cross.

The President can wait until fall after Congress has gone home and his legislative program is no longer dangling in suspense.

Cox, younger than Cross and a former Seattle lawyer, was general counsel of Magnuson's committee. As head of the FCC's Broadcast Bureau, he holds a key administrative job and is highly rated by New Frontiersmen. His views on radio and TV programming are particularly well regarded by them.

POLITICALS - The "Kennedy dynasty" issue is rearing its head with increasing frequency - according to staff members of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee. They report Democratic candidates throughout the country are sending word that GOP opponents are beginning to hammer strongly on this issue, particularly since the Massachusetts Democratic convention's endorsement of the senatorial ambitions of "Ted" Kennedy, 30-year-old brother of the President. . . . During former President Truman's latest visit to Washington, for the $250-a-plate dinner for outgoing Democratic Treasurer Matt McCloskey, who has been named Ambassador to Ireland, he told party leaders he was eager and willing to tee off on a favorite political target - former President Eisenhower. Truman told the Democratic campaign managers he was willing to "go after Eisenhower" in the fall state and congressional elections. The party chiefs feel Truman can do this more freely than President Kennedy, and they propose to use the former to the utmost for that.

Speaker John McCormack got a big pat on the back from two unexpected sources - Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Hubert Humphrey, Minn. and Representative Burr Harrison, D-Va., veteran member of the powerful Ways and Means Committee. Both went out of their way to tell President Kennedy that McCormack is doing "an exceptional job in putting your legislative program through. Humphrey lauded McCormack during a conference with the President, and Harrison phoned the latter expressly for that purpose after the House approved the administration's bill to raise the national debt limit to $308 billion. Harrison told the President, "You owe a lot to John. While the Senate is tied in knots on your measures, John is putting them through the House one after another." Both lawmakers strongly inferred it was time the President publicly recognized McCormack's stellar legislative leadership.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

Is the Kennedy administration really anti-business?

My conviction is that it is, based on its action in the steel price dispute, its disdain for sound fiscal practices, its demands for more control over the economy and the increased activity of its regulatory agencies.

But I believe the important point to remember is this: regardless of whether or not the federal government is actually hostile to the interests of business, the fact that the business community and many American investors believe it to be anti-business is a tremendous psychological factor.

The existence of this widespread belief is undoubtedly the thing that triggered the stock market plunge. It is also the thing that is beginning to dry up the investment capital needed to expand the economy and create new jobs for an expanding population.

It is injecting fear and confusion and indecision into the operation of the national economy at a time when our world-wide obligations cry out for healthy expansion.

This kind of uncertainty on the part of business over the attitude of big government is the high road to recession if there ever was one.

Perhaps the most important requirement for increased business activity and sound economic growth is a healthy climate. When optimism abounds, more people with money are eager to invest in the future. When pessimism and uncertainty reign, they sit tight. Their money remains idle and the wherewithal for business expansion and growth is withdrawn.

Consequently, the raging battle over whether the Kennedy administration is, in actual fact, anti-business becomes largely academic. The thing that has slowed down the American economy and sent the stock market into the doldrums is the prevailing conviction that the government is adamantly opposed to price increases and only weakly opposed to new union wage demands.

This being the case, the New Frontier - at the very least - is guilty of completely misunderstanding the way our free competitive enterprise system operates.

It is guilty of letting the government appear to be antagonistic. It is guilty of believing that the system can function better if the government replaces the natural law of supply and demand with administrative edict in the name of the "public interest."

Our national economy is an intricate and sensitive system. It must be understood both mechanically and psychologically by the government of the United States if we are to remain strong at a time of world-wide challenge. It cannot be subjected to tampering and experimentation at the government level if it is to supply the materials and employment for a growing population.

This kind of tampering is always accompanied by the high-sounding theories of men who have never had to meet a payroll, struggle with technological changes, fight rising labor costs and adjust to burdensome tax rates.

These theorists have the textbooks, but they lack the insight of practical experience. They have the university degrees, but they lack the personal knowledge of the marketplace. They have the power of government, but they don't know when or how it should be used.

This is a highly dangerous situation. We are navigating in explosive economic waters when the vast power of government is handled by planners who lack fundamental understanding.

I suggest that if the administration doesn't understand the vital necessity for business confidence and what massive government harassment can do to sap that confidence, it is ill-equipped to guide us through an era which requires economic growth on a huge scale.

In the situation we find ourselves today, a lack of understanding on the part of government can be just as ruinous to business activity as an admitted policy of hostility. At the moment, it is not so much what the government feels its official attitude to be with regard to business, but what the vast majority of American people believe that attitude to be.

Appearances can be misleading, but they also can be downright dangerous when they have such an important bearing on our economic future.

How do you stand, sir?

'Old-Fashioned'

Stock Exchange Trading System Goes Back To Ancient Times

Inlaid into the floor of the part of the New York Stock Exchange where bonds are traded is a hexagon about eight feet in diameter. When a NYSE member trades a block of bonds, he must have one foot inside that hexagon, he must say out loud what bonds he is trading and at what price. Thus, as one trader remarked when he saw me staring at the design on the floor and the men's feet: "All other bond traders in the room can hear what is taking place. It's our 'open out cry' rule."

This is automation? This is antiquity, a system of auction trading going back to ancient times.

On the five - story high walls of the NYSE's main hall are two huge annunciator boards. When a NYSE firm's telephone clerk wants to send a message to the firm's member on the floor, he does so by pressing a switch which flaps a little tablet on which is printed the member's number. The member sees his number on the board, goes to his telephone clerk, gets his message. If the clerk is particularly anxious to reach the member, he agitatedly flap - flap - flaps the tablet - which presumably makes the member move ever faster, but always, of course, within the bounds of the NYSE's "you gotta walk, not run" rule.

This is automation? This too is antiquity, a system of signaling used centuries ago.

In the NYSE's main hall and "garage" are seven ticker tapes on which all transactions in stocks during a trading day are printed. These highspeed tickers are the successors to the originals invented by E. A. Calahan in 1867, refined by Thomas A. Edison into the famous squarish glass-covered machine. Today's high - speed tickers are capable of printing 500 characters or 80 transactions a minute.

This is automation? Yes, to the extent that automation had progressed by September 1930, for that's the date today's stock tickers were installed. And that's why the tickers ran more than four hours behind actual transactions during the selling waves of late May and by being so late, compounded the chaos.

When Keith Funston, president of the NYSE, and a group of NYSE vice presidents escorted me around the floor last week, I asked a lot of questions about automation vs. antiquity. There is no doubt that the NYSE recognizes the exchange could be made much more efficient.

Consider those annunciator boards, for instance. It's a charmingly old-fashioned way to summon a broker for a message, but hardly the most efficient way. In fact, the NYSE is considering now a new system whereby members would get their messages via a type of walkie - talkie device, much as doctors get their messages when they're away from the phones.

Or consider those "high - speed"

tickers. True, the NYSE ordered new, higher-speed tickers a year ago, which will be in operation 18 months from now and will be capable of printing 900 characters or about 150 transactions, a minute. But while this ticker will be able to keep up with a trading volume of up to 10 million shares a day, even the yet-to-come ticker would have twice fallen 20 minutes behind the market on May 29, when more than 14.7 million shares were traded. "We have the best engineering minds working on this problem, but they haven't come up with anything better so far," says Funston.

Or consider the fact that when a stock trade is completed, a little piece of paper must be sent by pneumatic tube to an operator five stories above the floor, there recorded on a machine, which in turn puts the transaction on the ticker tape.

"This we'll improve," promises Funston. "In the future, the ticker operator may be stationed on the floor itself and, with compact electronic equipment the size of a memo pad, he'll be able almost instantaneously to activate the ticker." Then Funston said, "We can't invent machines to handle the unexpected. And you wouldn't want machines to replace men, would you?"

"God forbid," said I. As I said good-bye, delicately picked my way out of the litter of gum and candy wrappers, glanced back at the mob of noisy men and decided that, after an old-fashioned afternoon at the NYSE, it was only fitting for me to use my legs and walk home.

Crime And Garbage

"The public will go into a rage if a garbage collection is skipped but it will take understaffing of its police force rather lightly."

That statement was made in a magazine article written by Samuel Grafton.

"It is this public apathy," said Dr. James J. Brennan of Michigan State University's School of Police Administration, that is partly responsible for the serious breakdown of law and "order in the United States."

While much of the South has kept crime under control and, in some instances, has succeeded in lowering its incidence, crime is rampant in the bigger cities of the north and east and in some big western cities.

In articles carried by magazines, little, if any, mention is ever made of the effect of integration or the migration of Negroes from the south to the north on the crime rate, yet there is a definite connection. There can be little doubt that President Kennedy's sponsoring of millions of dollars to combat juvenile delinquency stemmed from the staggering increase in the crime rate in the cities into which Negroes from the south have poured in their search for the promised land dangled before them by northern politicians.

In the city of Boston in the president's own state of Massachusetts, there is virtually a state of terror. In Grafton's article is the following statement:

"... Comparatively few women dare to venture out alone in Boston after dark; some won't even answer the doorbell."

One angry Bostonian was quoted as saying: "It is unsafe to walk late at night alone in many sections of south Boston, the west end, north end, Roxbury and Dorchester and also in Boston Common."

On July 21 last year, blood smeared the city's streets when a rash of muggings, brawls and accidents sent 88 persons to the Boston City Hospital alone.

Commenting further on the crime situation, the article said:

"The cab has become a small, roving fortress in the endless war. In areas of doubtful safety, such as Manhattan's upper west side in New York, it is not at all uncommon to take a taxi for a single block from the subway to his apartment. A St. Louis chef takes a cab home every night. He used to drive his own car but he sold it because he was afraid to walk from the garage behind his house to the front door."

"The taxicab in which the more affluent citizen tries to ride through his problem presents its own problems. So many Boston cab drivers have been sluggish from behind that many now insist on screens to separate them from the rear seats. Authorities in New York periodically discuss bullet-proof partitions for taxicabs, foot-controlled red blinker lights that drivers could operate during hold-ups or mobile telephones linked directly with police headquarters."

Normal, freedom-loving Americans are said to have accepted casually a situation in which a fear of crime partly denies them freedom.

Just outside Chicago a middle-aged filling station attendant refused one night to check a customer's tires. "If I bend down, you could hit me on the head," he said, without rancor. "You're welcome to check the tires yourself, though."

Contempt for law, order and common decency was shown last February when a bus to San Francisco went over an icy embankment. Well-dressed motorists stopped their cars and went through the wreck, lifting jewelry and wallets from the victims.

The article stated that every 17 seconds a serious crime is committed in the United States. Between 1956 and 1960, figures showed, 237 policemen were slaughtered in this country. Juvenile arrests for larceny rose 61 per cent in five years and sex offenses went up 41 per cent. Crime in United States cities of more than 25,000 jumped 14 per cent in 1960 and rose two per cent more in 1961. There were 2,525 attacks on New York police in 1961.

Commenting further on the danger zones in big cities, the article said:

"Engraved in the mind of almost every big-city American is a map of neighborhoods in which it is not safe to walk at night."

"No Chicagoan in his right mind would dream of strolling at night through Grant Park, along the downtown lakefront. And the New Yorker who used to sleep on the grass in Central Park on hot nights would as soon take a cosy nap on the East Berlin sidewalk with an American flag in his hand."

"Crime in the United States is growing at four times the rate of the population and now costs us $60 million a day."

Attorney General Robert Kennedy, in what appears to be a sensible position, blames the increase in crime to a large extent on the public's support of the crime syndicates. He said:

"What's wrong with a $2 bet. That frequently - raised question might just as well read: 'What's wrong with a multimillion-dollar narcotics ring or widespread prostitution, or a corrupt mayor?' The $2 bet is the key to all evils, for it bankrolls the underworld. The $2 bet doesn't stop in the hands of the small-time bookie at the corner cigar store. Ultimately, it is fed to big-time 'lay-off' gamblers who use their huge gambling profits to finance racketeering ventures—and, worst of all, to corrupt local officials. . . . The only lasting solution will come when people everywhere realize their own responsibilities to abide by the law."

What has brought about this terrible increase in the rate of crime? A surprisingly large number of police chiefs talk about religion.

"To keep the peace," says Police Commissioner Allen N. Brown of Philadelphia, "you need some other force besides policemen. Something awesome."

"I see a general falling away from religious practice in this country," said William H. Parker, chief of police in Los Angeles. "I do not see how we are to achieve self-mastery without religious direction and religious motivation. . . ."

People throughout the whole United States can hardly fail to be staggered by the seriousness of the whole crime situation. Nevertheless, there are several things which the people in the Twin Cities area and in some other areas of the south can ponder seriously and be thankful for.

One is that we are comparatively free from terror. There are few places we fear to go and women are usually safe on the streets at night.

The south generally has adhered to religion more closely than the other areas of the country.

This is conclusive evidence that religious people should fight against elimination of religion from public schools. This does not mean that denominationalism or certain religious beliefs should be taught but it does mean students should be taught that there is a Supreme Being and that there are right and wrong ways to live.

FCC Is In Kennedy's Hair

President Caught In Cross-Fire Of Two Powerful Groups In Naming Successor To John Cross

The stormy - embattled Federal Communications Commission is again in President Kennedy's much - ruffled hair.

This time it's a backstage hassle over Commissioner John Cross.

The seven - year term of the Arkansas Democrat expires the end of this month, and the President is finding himself on an exceedingly uncomfortable spot trying to decide what to do about that.

He is caught in a hectic cross-fire between two powerful Democratic groups laying claim to this patronage plum, as follows:

Backing Cross for another term — Arkansas' entire congressional delegation, which includes four major committee chairmen in charge of some of the most important aspects of the President's legislative program. Flouting these chairmen on patronage is no light matter, as the President, long a member of Congress himself, knows only too well. These high - powered chairmen are:

Representative Wilbur Mills, head of the Ways and Means Committee, that has jurisdiction over the President's tax bill, trade liberalization measure, and hotly controversial medicare plan; Representative Oren Harris, head of the Commerce Committee, handling the bitterly disputed satellite communications bill proposal; Senator John McClellan, head of the Rackets Investigating Committee, that is digging into the malodorous Billie Sol Estes scandal; and Senator J. William Fulbright, head of the Foreign Relations Committee, with authority over the multi-billion dollar foreign aid budget that is under heavy attack.

Backing Kenneth Cox, chief of the Communications Commission's Broadcast Bureau — Senator Warren Magnuson, Washington State, head of the Commerce Committee, which has jurisdiction over the communications satellite bill and appointments to the FCC; FCC Chairman Newton Minow, whom insiders are crediting with demanding Cross' replacement on pain of quitting himself.

They are saying Minow is insisting Cross must go and that Cox would succeed him.

Outcome of this exceptional tug-of-war is conjectural. Best guess is that Kennedy will sidestep a decision until after Congress quits. Under the law, Cross retains his job until a successor is named. So the President is not under immediate compulsion to replace Cross.

The President can wait until fall after Congress has gone home and his legislative program is no longer dangling in suspense.

Cross, appointed by President Eisenhower, is a hard-working but little - known FCC Commissioner. According to friends of Minow, he doesn't consider Cross sufficiently "dynamic and broad-gauged."

Cox, younger than Cross and a former Seattle lawyer, was general counsel of Magnuson's committee. As head of the FCC's Broadcast Bureau, he holds a key administrative job and is highly rated by New Frontiersmen. His views on radio and TV programming are particularly well regarded by them.

POLITICALS — The "Kennedy dynasty" issue is rearing its head with increasing frequency — according to staff members of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee. They report Democratic candidates throughout the country are sending word that GOP opponents are beginning to hammer strongly on this issue, particularly since the Massachusetts Democratic convention's endorsement of the senatorial ambitions of "Ted" Kennedy, 30-year-old brother of the President. . . . During former President Truman's latest visit to Washington, for the $250-a-plate dinner for outgoing Democratic Treasurer Matt McCloskey, who has been named Ambassador to Ireland, he told party leaders he was eager and willing to tie off on a favorite political target — former President Eisenhower. Truman told the Democratic campaign managers he was willing to "go after Eisenhower" in the fall state and congressional elections. The party chiefs feel Truman can do this more freely than President Kennedy, and they propose to use the former to the utmost for that.

Speaker John McCormack got a big pat on the back from two unexpected sources — Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Hubert Humphrey, Minn., and Representative Burr Harrison, D-Va., veteran member of the powerful Ways and Means Committee. Both went out of their way to tell President Kennedy that McCormack is doing "an exceptional job in putting your legislative program through. Humphrey lauded McCormack during a conference with the President, and Harrison phoned the latter expressly for that purpose after the House approved the administration's bill to raise the national debt limit to $300 billion. Harrison told the President, "You owe a lot to John. While the Senate is tied in knots on your measures, John is putting them through the House after another." Both lawmakers strongly inferred it was time the President publicly recognized McCormack's stellar legislative leadership.

Today is Saturday, June 23, the 174th day of the year with 191 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Jupiter, Mars and Saturn.

The evening star is Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1836, the U.S. Treasury divided a surplus of more than $28-million among 26 states.

In 1931, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty took off for a round-the-world plane flight which lasted eight days and 16 hours.

In 1938, Congress created the Civil Aeronautics Authority to regulate air traffic.

In 1947, the House overrode President Truman's veto and enacted the Labor-Management Act, known as the Taft-Hartley Act.

A thought for the day: The American humorist, Irvin Cobb, wrote: "Lay my ashes at the roots of a dogwood tree in Paducah at the proper planting season. Should the tree live, that will be monument enough for me."

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U. S. Senator From Arizona

Is the Kennedy administration really anti-business?

My conviction is that it is, based on its action in the steel price dispute, its disdain for sound fiscal practices, its demands for more control over the economy and the increased activity of its regulatory agencies.

But I believe the important point to remember is this: regardless of whether or not the federal government is actually hostile to the interests of business, the fact that the business community and many American investors believe it to be anti-business is a tremendous psychological factor.

The existence of this widespread belief is undoubtedly the thing that triggered the stock market plunge. It is also the thing that is beginning to dry up the investment capital needed to expand the economy and create new jobs for an expanding population.

It is injecting fear and confusion and indecision into the operation of the national economy at a time when our world - wide obligations cry out for healthy expansion.

This kind of uncertainty on the part of business over the attitude of big government is the high road to recession if there ever was one.

Perhaps the most important requirement for increased business activity and sound economic growth is a healthy climate. When optimism abounds, more people with money are eager to invest in the future. When pessimism and uncertainty reign, they sit tight. Their money remains idle and the where-withal for business expansion and growth is withdrawn.

Consequently, the raging battle over whether the Kennedy administration is, in actual fact, anti-business becomes largely academic. The thing that has slowed down the American economy and sent the stock market into the doldrums is the prevailing conviction that the government is adamantly opposed to price increases and only weakly opposed to new union wage demands.

This being the case, the New Frontier — at the very least — is guilty of completely misunderstanding the way our free competitive enterprise system operates.

It is guilty of letting the government appear to be antagonistic. It is guilty of believing that the system can function better if the government replaces the natural law of supply and demand with administrative edict in the name of the "public interest."

Our national economy is an intricate and sensitive system. It must be understood both mechanically and psychologically by the government of the United States if we are to remain strong at a time of world - wide challenge. It cannot be subjected to tampering and experimentation at the government level if it is to supply the materials and employment for a growing population.

This kind of tampering is always accompanied by the high-sounding theories of men who have never had to meet a payroll, struggle with technological changes, fight rising labor costs and adjust to burdensome tax rates.

These theorists have the textbooks, but they lack the insight of practical experience. They have the university degrees, but they lack the personal knowledge of the marketplace. They have the power of government, but they don't know when or how it should be used.

This is a highly dangerous situation. We are navigating in explosive economic waters when the vast power of government is handled by planners who lack fundamental understanding.

I suggest that if the administration doesn't understand the vital necessity for business confidence and what massive government harassment can do to sap that confidence, it is ill-equipped to guide us through an era which requires economic growth on a huge scale.

In the situation we find ourselves today, a lack of understanding on the part of government can be just as ruinous to business activity as an admitted policy of hostility. At the moment, it is not so much what the government feels its official attitude to be with regard to business, but what the vast majority of American people believe that attitude to be.

Appearances can be misleading, but they also can be downright dangerous when they have such an important bearing on our economic future.

'Old-Fashioned'

Stock Exchange Trading System Goes Back To Ancient Times

Inlaid into the floor of the part of the New York Stock Exchange where bonds are traded is a hexagon about eight feet in diameter. When a NYSE member trades a block of bonds, he must have one foot inside that hexagon, he must say out loud what bonds he is trading and at what price. Thus, as one trader remarked when he saw me staring at the design on the floor and the men's feet, "All other bond traders in the room can hear what is taking place. It's our 'open out cry' rule."

This is automation? This is antiquity, a system of auction trading going back to ancient times.

On the five - story high walls of the NYSE's main hall are two huge annunciator boards. When a NYSE firm's telephone clerk wants to send a message to the firm's member on the floor, he does so by pressing a switch which flaps a little tablet on which is printed the member's number. The member sees his number on the board, goes to his telephone clerk, gets his message. If the clerk is particularly anxious to reach the member, he agitatedly flaps - flaps the tablet — which presumably makes the member move over faster, but always, of course, within the bounds of the NYSE's "you gotta walk, not run" rule.

This is automation? This too is antiquity, a system of signaling used centuries ago.

In the NYSE's main hall and "garage" are seven ticker tapes on which all transactions in stocks during a trading day are printed. These highspeed tickers are the successors to the originals invented by E. A. Calahan in 1867, refined by Thomas A. Edison into the famous squarish glass-covered machine. Today's high - speed tickers are capable of printing 500 characters or 80 transactions a minute.

This is automation? Yes, to the extent that automation had progressed by September 1930, for that's the date today's stock tickers were installed. And that's why the tickers ran more than four hours behind actual transactions during the selling waves of late May and by being so late, compounded the chaos.

When Keith Funston, president of the NYSE, and a group of NYSE vice presidents escorted me around the floor last week, I asked a lot of questions about automation vs. antiquity. There is no doubt that the NYSE recognizes the exchange could be made much more efficient.

Consider those annunciator boards, for instance. It's a charmingly old - fashioned way to summon a broker for a message, but hardly the most efficient way. In fact, the NYSE is considering now a new system whereby members would get their messages via a type of walkie - talkie device, much as doctors get their messages when they're away from the phones.

Or consider those "high - speed"

tickers. True, the NYSE ordered new, higher-speed tickers a year ago, which will be in operation 18 months from now and will be capable of printing 900 characters or about 150 transactions, a minute. But while this ticker will be able to keep up with a trading volume of up to 10 million shares a day, even the yet-to-come ticker would have twice fallen 20 minutes behind the market on May 29, when more than 14.7 million shares were traded. "We have the best engineering minds working on this problem, but they haven't come up with anything better so far," says Funston.

Or consider the fact that when a stock trade is completed, a little piece of paper must be sent by pneumatic tube to an operator five stories above the floor, then recorded on a machine, which in turn puts the transaction on the ticker tape.

"This we'll improve," promises Funston. "In the future, the ticker operator may be stationed on the floor itself and, with compact electronic equipment the size of a memo pad, he'll be able almost instantaneously to activate the ticker." Then Funston said, "We can't invent machines to handle the unexpected. And you wouldn't want machines to replace men, would you?"

"God forbid," said I, as I said good-bye, delicately picked my way out of the litter of gum and candy wrappers, glanced back at the mob of noisy men and decided that, after an old-fashioned afternoon at the NYSE, it was only fitting for me to use my legs and walk home.

GOP Fans Fire Under Freeman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican supporters Friday to build critical fires under Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman for his examination of department correspondence with two GOP senators. The White House backed the Cabinet member.

The fuss started Thursday when Sen. Karl S. Mundt of South Dakota and Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska held a news conference to tell reporters of the department's compilation of their letters.

They called it an effort by Freeman to intimidate them in advance of Senate hearings on the Billie Sol Estes case.

The Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee begins hearings next Wednesday in its inquiry into the affairs of Estes, the boom-and-bust Texas promoter.

Among other things, it will try to determine whether the now bankrupt and indicted farmer-financier enjoyed special Agriculture Department favors in his extensive grain-storage and cotton-allotment operations.

Mundt and Curtis are minority members of the subcommittee and they accused Freeman of trying to get something on them in advance of the hearings. No such examination was made of the Democratic members' correspondence.

Freeman expressed surprise at the senators' anger and insisted that he was merely trying to determine their views on department matters so he would be in a position to give more responsive answers.

Mundt invited President Kennedy to speak out on what Mundt called an attempt by Freeman to thwart the Estes investigation. But White House press secretary Pierre Salinger told newsmen the President would have no comment.

"I think the secretary of agriculture answered adequately," Salinger said.

Freeman drew similar backing from Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the Senate majority leader.

"I have every confidence in the integrity of Secretary Freeman, who has performed outstandingly in his present, most difficult, position and whose explanation I accept wholeheartedly," Mansfield said.

But if Mundt and Curtis could stir no support among Democrats, they got enthusiastic backing from fellow Republicans.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, Senate minority leader from Illinois, told a news conference the affair "smacks a little of a Gestapo technique. I think it is rather astonishing. The whole matter will be thoroughly ventilated."

Rep. Charles A. Halleck, the House minority leader from Indiana, at the same news conference said what the department did "shocks the conscience of the country."

Both agreed the action will make the subcommittee inquiry more, rather than less, effective.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont said in an interview "Freeman and his people were trying to build a backstab and they got caught at it. They were clumsy. They're going to hear more about this when they appear before Senate Agriculture and Appropriations committees, among others."

Aiken had reference to the fact that the secretary and his aides often have to appear before these committees to argue for legislation and for funds and the Vermont expects they will have the Mundt-Curtis episode thrown at them then.

New Accord Reported By Laos Leaders

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Laos' combative leaders Friday smashed and then put together again an agreement on installing a three-party coalition government.

The latest word of accord came from Prince Souvanna Phouma, the neutralist premier-designate, but he made a mystery of how the latest settlement was reached.

He said details would be disclosed when King Savang Vatthana finally signs the royal decree installing the new regime, which is intended to remove this embattled nation from the cold war arena.

He announced, amid applause from officials in his garden, this schedule that will permit the rightist, neutralist and pro-Communist government to take office by 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

—Arrival in Vientiane of his pro-Communist half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong of the Pathet Lao, who is to be a deputy premier.

—A call on the king to "pay our respects."

Presentation of royalist Premier Prince Boun Oum's resignation.

Inauguration of the new government by the king, followed by a swearing-in ceremony.

—First Cabinet session Saturday night or Sunday morning.

—Selection by the Cabinet of a unified delegation to the 14-nation conference in Geneva to sign an East-West agreement guaranteeing this country's independence and neutrality.

The schedule will permit Souvanna to meet a deadline—to take off Sunday for Cambodia en route to Paris to attend his daughter's wedding next Thursday.

U.S. ACTION BAFFLES

Red China Buildup Alarm Is Mystery

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Politically minded people in Taipei came from the United States? Was question: Why did Washington "wolf" so often that nobody would raise an alarm about a possible Red Chinese attack on the Nationalist-held islands off mainland China?

The mystery is an intriguing one. For the past four years it has been the Chinese Nationalists who have shouted alarms—and no attack materialized. Now the report of White House worry seems to have produced a negative reaction in this Nationalist capital.

Those who claim to be baffled ponder these points: If there has been a build up...

Advices from Hong Kong, quoting Western intelligence sources, express doubt of an imminent Red Chinese offensive. Those sources say the Red Chinese would content template attack only if they believed President Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa regime seemed ready to attempt invading the mainland.

The Communist idea would be to beat him to the punch. While the Nationalists have been talking about an offensive against Red China for some time, the Hong Kong sources say the possibility seems remote. It would require a mainland uprising first.

Why have the Chinese Nationalists been so calm about the build up report this time? It could be either that the Nationalists are not disposed to believe a crisis is imminent, or that they are convinced such a crisis could be surmounted.

There is no evidence of a feeling of tension or crisis among U.S. and Chinese Nationalist officials in Taipei.

The mystery is why the Nationalists, who always have warned of the danger of Red Chinese aggression, played down the latest forebodings of Washington.

Could it be that Washington obliquely is telling both the Nationalists and the mainland Communists to avoid any action which might embroil the United States?

Two cases of theft by check, nolle prossed on payment of court costs, involved Mrs. Ruth Harvey, 4005 Old Sterling Road, and Jerry Roy Moak, for whom no address was listed.

In traffic court, a $25 bond was forfeited for reckless driving by Negro Henry B. Williams of Grambling, while a bond of $20 was forfeited by Barney J. Tanus, 427 Loop Road, for speeding.

Fines also were levied two cases of running red lights, one for following too closely and one for driving without a valid driver's license. Five persons were fined for overparking, and a $25 fine was suspended for running a stop sign.

A case of disturbing the peace, was nolle prossed, while public drunkenness cost a single offender $25 or 25 days.

DISTRICT COURT

Trio Enters Plea In Burglary Case

Two brothers and a third man Friday pleaded guilty to the June 11 burglary of H. L. Sanford Grocery Store on Highway 80 west before Judge Jesse Heard in Fourth District.

Brothers Roger Robertson, 29, and Billy Wayne Robertson, 20, both of 121 Violet Street, West Monroe, were remanded for pre-sentencing investigation along with Charles Dorvin Poteet, 27, also of West Monroe.

Monroe Negro John Thomas, alias Willie Charles Thomas, 35, of 2720 Washington Drive, pleaded guilty to two counts of forgery and was remanded for pre-sentencing investigation.

Judge Heard sentenced Monroe Negro Lawrence Holmes Jr., 21, 716 Powell Avenue, to five years in the penitentiary, but suspended the judgement and placed Holmes on probation.

Holmes was convicted of negligent homicide in the deaths last April of Ouachita Parish residents Mrs. Barbara Little and Bobby Lynn Hendrix who died after an accident at Powell Avenue and Milhaven Road. Holmes was driving the truck involved in the wreck.

Julian Earl Dunaway, 39, of 713 11th Street SW, Birmingham, Ala., was sentenced to three years at Angola for attempted simple burglary.

Also placed on probation was Olyn C. Crouch, a 39-year-old Charleston, West Va., man. Crouch's sentence of two years in the parish jail was suspended pending restitution of $45.00 he was accused of stealing.

Fran J. Brennan, 54, of 107 Glenmar Avenue in Monroe pleaded not guilty to two charges of crime against nature. His trial was set for September 7.

Trial for Nathaniel James Smith, 25, Negro, of Beverly Street, Monroe was set for November 8. He is charged on three counts with simple burglary.

West Monrovia Aubrey C. Causey, 21, of 128 Keller Avenue pleaded guilty to forgery and was ordered remanded for pre-sentencing investigation.

Traffic Cases

Are Major Part Of Court Action

Activity Friday in West Monroe city court centered largely around traffic violations, varying only for one case each of fighting, disturbing the peace and theft by check.

City Judge John McCormick suspended a 90-day sentence on a West Monroe woman convicted earlier for theft by check. Placed on supervised probation was Mrs. Billie Wallace, 802 Blazier.

A 25-year-old Negro, A. G. Sweeney, Galley Street, West Monroe, was fined $100 and costs or 90 days in jail for leaving the scene of an accident without offering to render help or aid or stop, and $25 or 30 days on a separate count of reckless driving.

Also for reckless driving, Jerry Donaldson, 20, 421 Flanigan St., drew a fine of $15 and costs or 10 days.

A Negro was fined $50 and costs or 30 days for fighting.

Fined for speeding were Herman Averett Jr., 19, 107 West St.; Waylon Chandler, 43, Ruston; and Negro Ben Crawford, 41, 207 Parent St.

Four persons were fined for running red lights, while a $40 bond was forfeited for disturbing the peace.

111 On Jetliner Perish In Crash

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe Grande Terre. A narrow channel (AP)—An Air France Boeing 707 separates the two. Jetliner with 111 persons aboard crashed during a pre-dawn storm while coming in Friday for a landing on this Caribbean island. All aboard perished: 102 passengers, including seven children and four babies, and 10 crew members.

Search crews who circled the wreckage of the $3.5-million jet plane by air reported it had exploded on impact and that the debris, scattered over nearly a mile had burned.

"There's nothing left of it," said James Welsh, head of the U.S. Information Agency in Guadeloupe, who flew over the disaster site on a forested hillside in his private plane. "It's a terrible sight."

Guadeloupe is a French overseas department in the Leeward Islands, a long chain separating the Atlantic and the Caribbean. It is 350 miles southeast of San Juan.

The disaster—the second to strike an Air France Boeing with in 20 days—came on a hill that rises more than a quarter mile above sea level on Basse Terre, the western segment of Guadeloupe.

The pilot had been cleared for a landing at the Pointe-a-Pitre airport on the eastern segment.

Ill On Jetliner
Perish In Crash

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (AP)—An Air France Boeing 707 jetliner with 111 persons aboard crashed during a pre-dawn storm while coming in for a landing on this Caribbean island. All aboard perished: 102 passengers, including seven children and four babies, and 10 crew members.

Search crews who circled the wreckage of the $3.5-million jet plane by air reported it had exploded on impact and that the debris, scattered over nearly a mile had burned.

"There's nothing left of it," said James Welsh, head of the U.S. Information Agency in Guadeloupe, who flew over the disaster site on a forested hillside in his private plane. "It's a terrible sight."

Guadeloupe is a French overseas department in the Leeward Islands, a long chain separating the Atlantic and the Caribbean. It is 350 miles southeast of San Juan.

The disaster — the second to strike an Air France Boeing within 20 days — came on a hill that rises more than a quarter mile above sea level on Basse Terre, the western segment of Guadeloupe.

The pilot had been cleared for a landing at the Pointe-a-Pitre airport on the eastern segment, Grande Terre. A narrow channel separates the two.

A thunderstorm was blamed by the pilot of an Air France liner who made his regular run later from Guadeloupe to San Juan. "The ceiling was very low," said this pilot, Capt. J. Cormier.

A list announced by Air France showed 10 crew members. They were headed by Capt. Andre Le-sieur, 42. A veteran who at times piloted French President Charles de Gaulle, he had logged more than 15,000 hours of flying time, including 1,850 hours in the Boeing 707 on intercontinental flights.

It was June 3 that a chartered Air France Boeing, with leaders of Atlanta's cultural and business communities among the 121 passengers, faltered and crashed on takeoff at Paris' Orly Airport. In all, 130 persons were killed. It was the worst single-plane tragedy in aviation history.

The plane wrecked on Guadeloupe, which leaves Air France with 18 of the big U.S.-built four-jet craft, was named the Chateau de Chantilly.

Landing points scheduled on its route from Paris were Lisbon, Portugal; Azores and Guadeloupe; then Caracas, Venezuela; Bogota, Colombia; Lima, Peru, and Santiago, Chile.

Reds Force Doctor To Treat Wounded

SAIGON, Vietnam (UPI)—An American woman missionary doctor who was kidnapped by the Viet Cong May 30 is being forced to treat wounded Communist guerillas and train their medics, it was learned Friday. Dr. Eleanor Ardel Vietty, of Houston, Tex., is being held in the mountainous country north of here along with Archie E. Mitchell, Ellensburg, Wash., and Daniel Gerber, Kidron, O. The three Americans were kidnapped at bayonet point from a missionary leprosarium near the mountain town of Ban Me Thout, 200 miles north of here. Captured Viet Cong prisoners and defectors furnished the information which American sources consider "highly reliable." They said all three Americans were alive and well.

However, they were said to have been subjected to moving constantly with the Viet Cong through rugged jungle country, apparently to prevent their being rescued by Vietnamese rangers searching for them.

The Americans were being held in caves much of time, the sources said. The guerrillas were said to have large numbers of wounded on their hands for Dr. Vietty to treat. The other two Americans have no medical training.

The source said Dr. Vietty may be performing surgery. A case of surgical instruments was stolen during the raid on the leprosarium.

Vietnamese forces attempting to rescue the three Americans are using extreme caution to avoid causing the Viet Cong to kill their captives in panic, the sources said.

Rail Carrier Negotiations Broken Off

CHICAGO (AP)—Railroad management broke off negotiations with 200,000 operating workers Friday over work rules that the employers consider call for unnecessary jobs.

The unions, made up of engineers, conductors, trainmen, firemen and switchmen, maintain the rules are needed for safe and efficient transportation service.

It was the second time since May 17 that the carriers had broken off talks with labor. Management accused the union negotiators of stalling efforts to reach a settlement of the dispute.

A statement issued by the railroads said it had become "painfully clear" that the five unions had no intention of accepting any part of the recommendations of a special commission appointed by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower to work out an agreement.

J. E. Wolfe, chief spokesman for the carriers, informed the union representatives and Leverett Edwards, chairman of the National Mediation Board, who has been sitting in on the negotiations, of the carriers' decision. It was a brief meeting.

"It is obvious that no progress can be made by prolonging the present endeavor," Wolfe said in a statement handed to Edwards and the union chiefs.

The unions issued a statement after the breakdown in which they charged the carriers engaged in "a deliberate, irresponsible, determined effort to force a transportation crisis."

"Since the start of the present conferences, carrier representatives have sought unilateral application of the presidential railroad commission's report and adamantly refused to negotiate issues," the statement said.

Later, at a news conference, Wolfe indicated the railroads would put into effect all the recommendations of the special commission as soon as the railroads are legally free to do so.

The unions have threatened to strike if the carriers try to put the recommendations into effect without an agreement.

The presidential commission, in February, recommended that about 41,000 firemen on diesel locomotives in yard and freight service be eliminated over a period of years. The firemen's union has a membership of around 60,000.

Air France Crash Is Second Worst

NEW YORK (AP) — The Air France crash at Guadeloupe on Friday was the second worst commercial single-plane disaster.

The worst aviation accident of all time was on Dec. 16, 1960, when a United Air Lines DC8 and a Trans World Airline Super Constellation collided over Staten Island, N.Y., killing 134. Six were killed on the ground.

On June 3 of this year an Air France 707 crashed at Orly Airport, Paris, killing 130 persons. That was the worst commercial single-plane accident.

Other June 18, 1953—129 persons, all servicemen, killed when Air Force C124 Globemaster crashed near Tokyo. June 30, 1956—128 persons killed when United DC7 and a Trans World plane collided over Grand Canyon.

Missing Climbers Are Found Safe

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — Four missing mountain climbers headed by Prof. Woodrow Wilson Sayre, grandson of the late President, have been found in a Himalayan village ill and exhausted, the Nepali government announced Friday.

Sayre, 42, a professor at Tufts University in Boston, Mass.; Boston lawyer Norman C. Hansen; Tufts student Roger Hart, 21; and Swiss teacher Hans P. Duttie had been missing since May 3, when they set out to climb 25,910-foot Mt. Gyachung Kang, 15 miles northwest of Mt. Everest.

The government said the climbers were bound in Khun Jung village, 17,000 feet high in the mountains, suffering from extreme exhaustion, malnutrition and illness. The party carried only enough food for 20 days and were missing more than twice that time.

Revlon Accused Of Anti-Trust Law Violations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Friday accused Revlon Inc., New York, of anti-trust law violations that resulted in inflated wholesale and retail prices for its cosmetics and other products.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy announced that a civil anti-trust complaint had been filed against the cosmetics firm in federal district court in Manhattan.

The company denied the charges.

It said in a statement: "We intend to fight this complaint with all of the vigor and talent at our disposal, in behalf not only of ourselves, but of our customers."

The suit asked the court to halt alleged illegal allocation of sales territories and customers by Revlon.

Kennedy said the suit accused Revlon of requiring wholesale and retail dealers for the last 10 years to sell at prices it fixed.

He said the resale price fixing was enforced by Revlon's threat to cut off its items to any firm which did not comply.

Jury Committee Assignments Set

Gilbert Says Board Action Shocked Him

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Edward M. Gilbert said Friday he took $2 million from the E. L. Bruce Co. with a full belief his board of directors would approve. He claimed some of his associates took the opportunity to cut him down as the firm's president.

Gilbert, who came to extradition-proof Brazil after the incident said he still was too confused to make up his mind to go back to the United States and fight it.

"What I really want is to get the chance to build up my fortune again and pay every cent back," he told an interviewer. "I am not a crook."

The New York financier said he needed the money to save the company as well as himself and that he still hasn't recovered from "the shock I got when the board refused to back me up."

"I never dreamed they would not support me," he said. "I did it to save the company just as much as myself. It was the only thing to do in the situation like that. After all, I built that company up."

Gilbert, 39, was interviewed in the AP office, where he turned up unexpectedly to read up on what was going on in his case in the United States. But he left before word reached here of the disclosure in New York that he owes the U.S. government $3,341,742 in federal income taxes.

U.S. Reported To Have Gained Soviet Secrets

By United Press International Two newspapers said Friday the United States apparently has gained a dramatic intelligence breakthrough through pinpointing the number and location of Soviet Union weapons.

The two newspapers are the Chicago Sun-Times and the New York Herald Tribune. Warren Rogers Jr., Washington correspondent to the Herald Tribune, said the intelligence reports come from satellites and extremely hush-hush electronic listening devices.

In a dispatch from Washington, Sun-Times correspondent Thomas B. Ross said "the penetration of Russian secrecy has convinced the Kennedy administration that it could now launch a pinpoint atomic attack on the bomber and missile bases inside the Soviet Union."

The dispatch said the new highly classified information accounts for the disclosure Saturday by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara "that the United States plans to strike at military sites rather than cities in the event of nuclear war."

How the breakthrough was achieved was being held as highly classified information, the Sun-Times said, but it reportedly involved refining an existing technique rather than arriving at a new method.

FAA Not Planning To Ground 707's

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Agency said Friday it has no plans to ground Boeing 707, the most widely-used jetliner in commercial aviation. "We have no evidence from the latest accident or any previous crashes to suggest that grounding is necessary," a top FAA official told UPI.

The official pointed out that the five previous crashes involving 707's all occurred under different circumstances and for apparently different reasons.

"There has been no pattern of cause and no indication of any serious weakness in the plane," the official added. "If any comes to our attention as the result of the accident investigations, we will take action."

The first fatal crash of a Boeing 707 involved a Belgian Sabena plane that went down in 1961 while making an approach at Brussels. The Belgian government has yet to issue findings on this accident which occurred in good weather.

The crash of an American Airlines Boeing at New York's Idlewild Airport last March still is under investigation. The CAB and FAA have indicated the inquiry has narrowed down to a handful of "promising" leads.

The destruction of a Continental 707 at Centerville, Iowa, last month definitely has been attributed to a bomb.

Investigators still are working on the accident involving an Air France Boeing at Paris 19 days ago. The chief clue thus far was the discovery that the wing flaps were found set at an abnormal angle.

"Of these five accidents," the FAA official emphasized Friday, one occurred during a good weather approach, the second a few minutes after takeoff, the

Robbery-Slaying Suspect Charged

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — A boyish-looking 27-year-old man who weighed less than 100 pounds was charged with first-degree murder in the robbery-slaying of a cab driver early Friday.

Police said they at first withheld the name of James A. Custer Jr., thinking he was a juvenile. Later they identified him as a television and radio repairman from Charleston, W.Va.

The cab driver, Louis Schackne 68, a former New York policeman, was shot in the neck by a 22-caliber bullet and died on the way to a hospital.

Police arrested Custer in the vicinity a short time later. They said he had a new revolver stuck in his belt.

Officers said Custer told them he pulled the trigger involuntarily after taking out the gun and telling the cab driver it was a stickup.

College Adopts Transfer Policy

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — The Literature Science and Arts College of the University of Michigan has decided to give preference in accepting transfer students to those of junior rank.

Also, enrollment pressures are less severe at the junior-senior level than in freshman - sophomore classes, the college said.

This would suggest a type of accident that could have involved any type of aircraft.

View From The Pressbox

Against Punching Sportswriters

Earl Lawson thinks Vada Pinson is a sloppy fielder. Lawson is a baseball writer for the Cincinnati Post and Times-Star. Unfortunately Lawson wrote what he thought.

Now he can write what he thinks about Pinson's hitting. The Cincinnati Reds center fielder poked Lawson in the kisser after he read the article.

"I'm getting sick and tired of being punched by ball players," Lawson said afterwards. A few years before Cincinnati second baseman Johnny Temple cut loose at Lawson over a call he made as official scorer.

But Lawson has already gotten back at Pinson. After the punching he said he thought Temple hit harder.

And so it goes. Sometimes it seems coaches and players live in a special world. They can perform superbly or miserably, but they dare not criticize them. Former sports editor and now famous fiction writer Paul Gallico had some choice words on this topic. Praise the athlete and you are a champ, he wrote, criticize him and no matter how deserving the barbs, you become an ingrate and a villain.

It isn't that Lawson was necessarily right. Pinson may be the greatest hustler and finest fielder in the world. But poking Lawson was a poor way to prove it.

Gallico had another pertinent comment. Editorializing, said Gallico, is the bread and butter of sports writing. It is permissible in sports where it would be out of place in regular news writing.

We agree wholeheartedly with the old scribe and defend the sports writer's right to say what he thinks. Sure, it's controversial avoided.

Paul's Headlines

One of the most discouraging things about Paul Dietz, leaving one of the nation's best football teams to coach one of the smaller potatoes in the major college football was that during his early days at the Point he couldn't sneeze without a writer arriving on the scene to do a feature on him and a photographer lining him, his wife and the kids on the family staircase for a shot or two.

Perhaps we're just catching that peculiar brand of provincial paranoia so common around here, but it didn't seem like Paul got that much notice when he was actually doing something at Louisiana State — like winning the National Championship or taking the Tigers to three bowl games.

B-R-S Rips Ruston, 14-6, For 9th Win

RUSTON (Special) — Monroe's Brown - Rivers - Scogin team pounded three Ruston pitchers for 16 hits here Friday night while collecting their ninth season victory by downing Ruston, 14-6.

Reggie Cassibry, Edwin Koss and Paul Richardson combined for Ruston to give up the hits. Monroe's Randall Fallin, who took a home run off Cassibry and gave up all of Ruston's six tallies, combined with Lynn Causey for the victory.

The Brown - Rivers - Scogin hurlers were backed up by strong hitting at both ends of the batting order.

The tilt was highlighted by two circuit clouts, a solo homer by Fallin in the second over the left field fence and a two-run homer by Richard Storms in the third for the Ruston nine.

Fallin gave up 10 hits to the host team while Causey, who relieved him in the fifth, held the Ruston team hitless for three innings. Causey has now pitched 21 innings of shutout ball.

Leftfielder Charlie Van Zile pounded out a double and two singles in four attempts to lead the Monroe hitters.

Monroe's Carl Guinn collected three safeties in five tries and drove in four of the visitor's 16 tallies.

The game ended Monroe's district schedule for the week but the Brown-Rivers-Scogin nine will take on the Natchez, Miss., Legion Juniors in an exhibition twin bill tonight in Monroe. The first game will begin at 5 o'clock in Legion Stadium.

Monroe and Natchez played two games in Natchez June 10 with the host club winning one, 6-4.

Davis Takes Over Post At Jefferson

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

Two young Twin-City coaches have been named to head coaching jobs at Neville High to fill a vacancy created by Head Track and Basketball Coach George Davis.

Bennie L. Hollis, hoop mentor at St. Matthew's High, got the basketball post and Charles "Buck" Stewart, an assistant coach at Neville, will assume track duties. Davis, a five-year veteran at Neville, is stepping out of athletics to become principal at Jefferson Junior High.

SECOND ADDITION
A second addition to the Neville family is William L. Smith, an assistant track and football coach at LaSalle of Olla. Smith will handle the Neville B-team grid program and assist Stewart with track.

Announcement came Friday by Van Odom, superintendent of education for the Monroe city school system.

When contacted Hollis said he was surprised at first that he had been chosen. "I have been happy at St. Matthew's," he commented "but this was an opportunity I couldn't pass up."

In reference to the selection, Odom expressed pleasure, saying, "We are glad to have him on the coaching staff."

Both Hollis and Stewart signed contracts with Neville Friday.

To date there has been no word as to who will take over the basketball position at St. Matthew's.

COACH OF YEAR
Hollis, who was named Twin-Cities Coach of the year last winter, took over the Irish hoop fortunes in 1961 and guided St. Matthew's to a surprising 22-6 record in what should have been a rebuilding year. His performance was good for second place in district 2-A.

A graduate of Bernice High in 1957, Hollis coached the Northeast State College freshman team for three years and compiled a 22-8 record. He was the first Indian mentor to handle the boys off this year's Gulf States Championship five at Northeast, the first basketball championship ever won by the school. Hollis also served as varsity assistant at Northeast.

He is single, has a B. S. from Northeast and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aylmer Hollis of Bernice.

SUCCESS REASON
Stewart, a Neville assistant since 1959, has been one of the

LOOKING FORWARD

A four-year letterman at Northwestern, Davis was also a member of the 1950 state championship hoop club at Florine High.

Married and the father of three children, Davis said his stay at Neville had been enjoyable and that it had included a number of wonderful experiences. "But I am looking forward to my new work," he added.

COBB RECORD BROKEN

Stan Sets Mark As Cards Divide

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Stan The Man Musial set a major league record for career total bases Friday night as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 7-3 in the first game of a two-night doubleheader, then dropped the nightcap 11-3.

In the opener Musial hit a home run and two singles to break the immortal Ty Cobb's major league record of 5,863 total bases. Musial raised his count to 5,866 by adding another single in the nightcap.

"For some reason I never paid much attention to that record," said the 41-year-old Musial. "But my friends tell me it will eventually be the one I will prize the most."

Romano Sparks 6-2 Tribe Victory

CLEVELAND (AP)—John Romano snapped an 0-for-26 slump Friday night with a pair of doubles, knocking in two runs and scoring twice, as the Cleveland Indians whipped the Washington Senators 6-2.

Dick Donovan (11-2) went the distance for the league-leading Indians. It was his eighth complete game in 15 starts. The tall right-hander yielded 11 hits, including

Landrith Hits Home Run As Orioles Spilt

BALTIMORE (AP)—Hobie Landrith's two-run homer with one out in the ninth gave the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 victory in the second game of a two-night doubleheader Friday night after the Boston Red Sox won the opener 2-1 in 10 innings.

The dive down the right field foul line came off Boston reliever Dick Radaz, who took over from starter Don Schwall in the ninth. Schwall was removed after suffering a muscle spasm in his side.

Three of Landrith's five hits since he joined the Orioles earlier this month have been homers.

Rookie Boog Powell, whose 489-foot homer in the seventh inning was the first ball ever hit over the center field hedge in Memorial Stadium, opened the Orioles ninth with a single.

Carl Robinson ran for Powell, but was forced at second on an attempted sacrifice by Jerry Adair. Landrith then hit a one-strike pitch just inside the foul pole.

The blow gave veteran Robin Roberts his third consecutive victory and the 27th of his major league career.

The Red Sox, who scored twice in the opening inning on a single by Gary Geiger, a hit batsman and a double by Peter Runnels, took a 3-2 lead in the ninth on an unearned run.

Baltimore's defense, which had been flawless in 10 previous games, proved costly in the opener.

With one out in the 10th, substituting third baseman Manny Breeding made a two-base throwing error on Billy Gardner's grounder. Gardner moved to third on an infield out and scored on a wild pitch by Oriole pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm. The knuckleball hurler had relieved starter Milt Pappas in the 10th.

White Sox Cop 5-1 Verdict Over Kansas City A's

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Sadowski's three-run pinch homer in the eighth inning and a splendid ninth-inning relief job by Don Zanni gave the Chicago White Sox a 5-1 victory over the Kansas City A's Friday night.

Sox starter Joe Horlen yielded singles to the first two batters in the opening inning and left the game with a sore arm.

EASTERN OPEN

Ford Fires Brilliant 65 For Comfortable Cushion

BALTIMORE (AP)—Doug Ford, birdie 3 on the 18th.

Ford's nearest threats going into the third round of the 72-hole tournament were Bobby Nichols, 26-year-old Kentuckian, Julius Boros, another old pro from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Howie Johnson, 36-year-old Chicagoan.

Nichols and Boros went around in 70 strokes both times while Johnson pulled into contention with a second round 67.

Ford's 65 was one stroke over the Mount Pleasant 18-hole record set by Tommy Bolt in 1957. His 134 total was a new low for 36 holes, one under Bob Toski's mark in 1954.

The 72-hole low for the 6,802-yard course is 275, 13 under par, scored by Sam Snead in 1952.

PARKER, FULLER Tech Stars End Brilliant Careers

RUSTON, La. (Special)—Louisiana Tech's baseball team next spring will be without the services of two of the school's finest pitchers—southpaw Sonny Parker and righty Charlie Fuller.

The two hurlers turned in four great years for Tech Coach Berry Hinton.

Little Parker compiled probably the greatest record ever by a Gulf States Conference moundsman. The pint-sized hurler won 22 games and lost only six in his four years, and ended with a career earned run average of 1.57. He pitched 218 innings, walked only 44 batters and struck out 240.

After suffering arm trouble as a freshman, Fuller came on to win 15 games and lose four, walking only 24, striking out 89, and compiling an earned run average of 2.59 for 129 innings.

Parker was an all-GSC choice four years in a row while Fuller was named the loop's most valuable player in 1961 after winning six games and losing none.

Despite the loss of Fuller and Parker, Hinton will be well off in the pitching department next spring. He has Amity, Ark., right-hander George Woodson back for two more seasons. He had 5-1 records.

Pirates Defeat Cubs As Groat Drives In Two

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, taking advantage of Detroit's timely hitting and capitalizing on Chicago errors, whipped the Cubs 7-5 Friday night.

Groat socked a double and a pair of singles and drove home the Pirates' final two runs.

The Pirates rallied for a 4-3 deficit in the sixth and came up with three runs off Chicago relief hurlers Barney Schultz and Don Elston.

Howie Goss led off with a single. Two outs later, he stole second, continued to third on Moe Thacker's wild pitch. Schultz then walked two straight men and was relieved by Elston, who was tagged for a run-scoring single by Bill Virdon and a double by Lufkin that scored what proved to be the winning run. Groat also singled home the final Pirate run in the eighth.

Bob Skinner walloped a two-run homer for the Pirates in the first.

Little League Baseball

A&C Music got 2-3 hitting from Wilkerson and downed Louisiana Machinery, 7-3, last night in the Eastside circuit. Wilson and Lockhart with McCarty getting 2-3 for the losers.

Van Trov edged Police Department, 4-3, in a Northside game as Saget and Guyton won over Sercy and Pope.

Twin City Printing beat Purity Ice Cream, 14-11, in a Southside slugfest. Kokinos got 4-4 for Twin City while Leath hit 3-4 for Purity. Wright and Holman and Smith won over Boudreaux and Van.

In the Minor "B" League, Monroe Glass won over First Federal, 14-7, as Yeager and Statham got three hits each. Thompson, Fisher and Humphrey hit two each for the losers as Harris and Davis bested Morris and Jensen.

Steele Motors took a 9-1 victory over Michael Wholesale with P. and D. Farr winning over McDowell and Peat.

Moses Motel stopped Lakeshore Pharmacy, 9-3, with Woolsey and Coleman won over Hart and Gibson. Acree got 2-3 for the losers.

Dixie League

KNOE topped Ryan Chevrolet 9-6 in the first of two Southside Dixie League games Friday. Lyons and Knight were the winning battery, while Youngblood and Floyd were tagged for the loss. Peters and Murphy both hit two for four to space KNOE.

In the second game, Ouachita Bank downed First Fidelity 8-2 with Howell batting three for four and 14-year-old girls Friday night in the Natchez Invitational Swim meet.

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP)—Dale Kaplan, 14-year-old New Orleans Newman High School student, bettered the national record for 13 and 14-year-old girls Friday night in the Natchez Invitational Swim meet.

AAU officials said Miss Kaplan's time for the 50-yard free style event was :26.8, or 6-10ths of a second off the national record.

Miss Kaplan, who will compete in Saturday's finals, swam in semiprofessional competition Friday night.

FRONT OFFICES BUZZ

ChiSox, Cub Officials Say Clubs Complacent

CHICAGO (AP)—The topic of whether Chicago's two major league baseball clubs, the seventh-place White Sox and the ninth-spot Cubs, are shackled by complacency caused considerable buzzing in the front offices of both teams Friday.

On the heels of an exchange of views between White Sox leaders and General Manager Ed Short as to whether the Pale Hose are putting it, it was reported at Pittsburgh that head Cub Coach Charlie Metro criticized "some persons traveling with this team who are happier when we lose than they are when we win."

Sox President A. C. Allyn was quoted as saying: "In my opinion, they (the Sox) are not putting out as much as they are capable of putting out."

They don't know why, but they aren't it a minute," said Lopez. Short said "there is no one on our club who is not giving his best."

The Sox won their second straight Thursday night from Minnesota, 6-2, and now have a 33-35 record.

Metro, who took over as head Cub coach on June 5, didn't make clear whether his antipathy to "good losers" was directed at players or fellow-coaches. Metro has followed El Tappe and Lou Klein as head coach in the Cubs' "college of coaches."

Following Thursday night's 3-0 loss at Philadelphia, snapping a five-game winning streak, Metro was said to be irked by levity displayed in the dressing room.

He asserted: "How anyone can be happy after a pitcher (Dick Evers) pitches and loses the tough game that he did, I don't know. I simply must and will condemn such action."

In Chicago, General Manager John Holland said "as far as friction or disagreement among the concerned, there has been none whatsoever to my knowledge."

BERLIN TITLE BOUT

Johnson Favored To Defeat German

BERLIN (AP)—American Harold Johnson is a confident and prohibitive 4-1 favorite to successfully defend his world light-heavyweight title against Germany's Gustav (Bubi) Scholz in the outdoor Olympic Stadium Saturday night.

A crowd of about 50,000 is expected to pay about $175,000 to see the 32-year-old, once-beaten Berliner attempt to become Germany's second world boxing champion.

The only German world champion, Max Schmeling who won the heavyweight crown 32 years ago this month, will be among the spectators for the 15-round bout.

Loose and relaxed, the 33-year-old Johnson and his wife, Mildred, went window shopping Friday on the eve of his fourth title fight.

Johnson, of Philadelphia, usually makes no bold predictions on his fights. But for this one he said he expected to knock out Scholz between the seventh and ninth rounds.

Scholz, unbeaten in his last 23 fights over a four-year span, never has been stopped. His only loss was a decision to France's Charles Humez on March 11, 1958. The stocky German's won-lost-draw record is 85-1-6, including 46 knockouts.

In his last two fights the handsome Berliner stopped Americans Jesse Bowdry (sixth round) and Neal Rivers (fifth round) in April and May in Berlin.

Scholz, who is ranked fourth by Ring and seventh by the American National Boxing Association, fought just once in the United States. He outpointed Al Andrews in 10 rounds at Madison Square Garden and then returned to Germany where he found the competition easier and the purses better.

Blancas Wins Semifinal In NCAA Meet

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—The University of Houston corralled both spots in the NCAA Golf Tournament finals Friday as All-American Homero Blancas and medalist Kermit Zarley each scored two victories.

Blancas lost only one hole all day as he turned back Tom Shaw of Oregon, 3 and 2, with a 2-under-par performance in the afternoon semifinals following a 5 and 4 morning quarter-finals victory over Jim Ferriell of Louisville.

Zarley, who plays No. 3 on Houston's championship team back of Blancas' No. 1, birdied the last hole for a 1 up afternoon victory over huge Bill Garrett of North Texas State. In the morning round Zarley was even par as he put out Jim Ewing of Southern California, 5 and 4.

Both Houston teammates will meet over 36 holes for the title Saturday, the rounds starting at 8:30 a.m. and 1 p.m., EST.

For the second year in a row teammates will meet for the championship. Jack Nicklaus, new U.S. Open champion, defeated Mike Padolski in an all-Ohio State final last year.

Blancas, son of a Houston golf course greens keeper, is a compact 5-foot-10, 185-pound 24-year-old. Zarley, who is 20, has lost some weight in the steaming heat here this week and is down to about 155 pounds but vows he'll take on poundage once he gets back to his father's Yakima, Wash., restaurant.

This is Zarley's first NCAA tournament and the third for Blancas, a first round loser twice before. The swarthy Texan reached the fourth round of the National Amateur last year, beating veteran internationalist Bob Gardner en route.

Romano Sparks 6-2 Tribe Victory

CLEVELAND (AP)—John Romano snapped an 0-for-26 slump Friday night with a pair of doubles, knocking in two runs and scoring twice, as the Cleveland Indians whipped the Washington Senators 6-2.

Dick Donovan (11-2) went the distance for the league-leading Indians. It was his eighth complete game in 15 starts. The tall right-hander yielded 11 hits, including

Landrith Hits Home Run As Orioles Split

BALTIMORE (AP)—Hobie Landrith's two-run homer with one out in the ninth gave the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 victory in the second game of a two-night doubleheader Friday night after the Boston Red Sox won the opener 2-1 in 10 innings.

The dive down the right field foul line came off Boston reliever Dick Radaz, who took over from starter Don Schwall in the ninth. Schwall was removed after suffering a muscle spasm in his side.

Three of Landrith's five hits since he joined the Orioles earlier this month have been homers.

Rookie Boog Powell, whose 469-foot homer in the seventh inning was the first ball ever hit over the center field hedge in Memorial Stadium, opened the Orioles ninth with a single.

Carl Robinson ran for Powell, but was forced at second on an attempted sacrifice by Jerry Adair. Landrith then hit a one-strike pitch just inside the foul pole.

The blow gave veteran Robin Roberts his third consecutive victory and the 237th of his major league career.

The Red Sox, who scored twice in the opening inning on a single by Gary Geiger, a hit batsman and a double by Peter Runnels, took a 3-2 lead in the ninth on an unearned run.

Baltimore's defense, which had been flawless in 10 previous games, proved costly in the opener.

With one out in the 10th, substitute third baseman Marv Breeding made a two-base throwing error on Billy Gardner's grounder. Gardner moved to third on an infield out and scored on a wild pitch by Oriole pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm. The knuckleball hurler had relieved starter Milt Pappas in the 10th.

Ford Fires Brilliant 65 For Comfortable Cushion

BALTIMORE (AP)—Doug Ford, birdie 3 on the 18th.

Ford's nearest threats going into the third round of the 72-hole tournament were Bobby Nichols, 26-year-old Kentuckian, Julius Boros, another old pro from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Howie Johnson, 36-year-old Chicagoan.

Nichols and Boros went around in 70 strokes both times while Johnson pulled into contention with a second round 67.

Ford's 65 was one stroke over the Mount Pleasant 18-hole record set by Tommy Bolt in 1957. His 134 total was a new low for 36 holes, one under Bob Toski's mark in 1954.

The 72-hole low for the 6,802-yard course is 275, 13 under par, scored by Sam Snead in 1952.

PARKER, FULLER

Tech Stars End Brilliant Careers

RUSTON, La. (Special)—Louisiana Tech's baseball team next spring will be without the services of two of the school's finest pitchers—southpaw Sonny Parker and righty Charlie Fuller.

The two hurlers turned in four great years for Tech Coach Berry Hinton.

Little Parker compiled probably the greatest record ever by a Gulf States Conference moundsman. The pint-sized hurler won 22 games and lost only six in his four years, and ended with a career earned run average of 1.57. He pitched 218 innings, walked only 44 batters and struck out 240.

After suffering arm trouble as a freshman, Fuller came on to win 15 games and lose four, walking only 24, striking out 89 and compiling an earned run average of 2.59 for 129 innings.

Parker was an all-GSC choice four years in a row while Fuller was named the loop's most valuable player in 1961 after winning six games and losing none.

Despite the loss of Fuller and Parker, Hinton will be well off in the pitching department next spring. He has Amity, Ark., right-hander George Woodson back for two more seasons. He had 51-1 records.

Little League Baseball

A&C Music got 2-3 hitting from Wilkerson and downed Louisiana Machinery, 7-3, last night in the Eastside circuit. Wilson and Luffey won over Phillips and Lockhart with McCarty getting 2-3 for the losers.

Van Trov edged Police Department, 4-3, in a Northside game as Saget and Guyton won over Sercy and Pope.

Twin City Printing beat Purity Ice Cream, 14-11, in a Southside slugfest. Kokinos got 4-4 for Twin City while Leath hit 3-4 for Purity. Wright and Holman and Smith won over Boudreau and Van.

In the Minor "B" League, Monroe Glass won over First Federal, 14-7, as Yeager and Statham got three hits each. Thompson, Fisher and Humphrey hit two each for the losers as Harris and Davis bested Morris and Jensen.

Steele Motors took a 9-1 victory over Michael Wholesale with P. and D. Farr winning over McDowell and Peat.

Moses Motel stopped Lakeshore Pharmacy, 9-3, with Woolsey and Coleman over Hart and Gibson. Acree got 2-3 for the losers.

Dixie League

KNOE topped Ryan Chevrolet 9-6 in the first of two Southside Dixie League games Friday. Lyons and Knights were the winning battery, while Youngblood and Floyd were tagged for the loss. Peters and Murphy both hit two for four to space KNOE.

ChiSox, Cub Officials Say Clubs Complacent

CHICAGO (AP)—The topic of whether Chicago's two major league baseball clubs, the seventh-place White Sox and the ninth-place Cubs, are complacent because of their front offices of both teams.

On the heels of an exchange of views between White Sox leaders and General Manager Ed Short over whether the Pale Hose are complacent, it was reported at Pittsburgh that head Cub Coach Charlie Metro criticized "some persons traveling with this team who are happier when we lose than they are when we win."

Sox President A. C. Allyn was quoted as saying: "In my opinion, they (the Sox) are not putting out as much as they are capable of putting out."

They are capable of putting out, I don't know why, but they aren't. . . they can play much better than they have thus far. I don't know why they have failed to play up to their potential, but there's excuse for it."

At the same time, however, Allyn described Manager Al Lopez and General Manager Ed Short as "two of the most capable men in baseball."

Lopez took exception to a headline which said Allyn blasted the Sox for "loading." He said he agreed with much Allyn said about the Sox "not yet reaching their potential but heatedly stated he would not stand for any loafing."

"I know when a player is not putting out and I won't stand for it a minute," said Lopez. Short said "there is no one on our club who is not giving his best."

The Sox won their second straight Thursday night from Minnesota, 6-2, and now have a 33-35 record.

Metro, who took over as head Cub coach on June 5, didn't make clear whether his antipathy to "good losers" was directed at players or fellow-coaches. Metro has followed El Tappe and Lou Klein as head coach in the Cubs' "college of coaches."

Following Thursday night's 3-0 loss at Philadelphia, snapping a five-game winning streak, Metro was said to be irked by levity displayed in the dressing room.

"How anyone can be happy after a pitcher (Dick Ellsworth) pitches and loses the tough game that he did, I don't know. I simply must and will condemn such action."

In Chicago, General Manager John Holland said "as far as friction or disagreement among the concerned, there has been none whatsoever to my knowledge."

He said he believed Charley Grimm, a Cub vice president traveling with the Cubs, would have reported to him "if something was going on."

Johnson is a confident and prohibitive 4-1 favorite to successfully defend his world light-heavyweight title against Germany's Gustav (Bubi) Scholz in the outdoor Olympic Stadium Saturday night.

A crowd of about 50,000 is expected to pay about $175,000 to see the 32-year-old, once-beaten Berliner attempt to become Germany's second world boxing champion.

The only German world champion, Max Schmeling who won the heavyweight crown 32 years ago this month, will be among the spectators for the 15-round bout.

Loose and relaxed, the 33-year-old Johnson and his wife, Mildren, went window shopping Friday on the eve of his fourth title fight.

Johnson, of Philadelphia, usually makes no bold predictions on his fights. But for this one he said he expects to knock out Scholz between the seventh and ninth rounds.

Scholz, unbeaten in his last 23 fights over a four-year span, never has been stopped. His only loss was a decision to France's Charles Humez on March 11, 1958. The stocky German's won-lost-draw record is 85-1-6, including 46 knockouts.

Johnson Favored To Defeat German

BERLIN (AP)—American Harold Johnson is a confident and prohibitive 4-1 favorite to successfully defend his world light-heavyweight title against Germany's Gustav (Bubi) Scholz in the outdoor Olympic Stadium Saturday night.

A crowd of about 50,000 is expected to pay about $175,000 to see the 32-year-old, once-beaten Berliner attempt to become Germany's second world boxing champion.

In his last two fights the handsome Berliner stopped Americans Jesse Bowdry (sixth round) and Neal Rivers (fifth round) in April and May in Berlin.

Scholz, who is ranked fourth by Ring and seventh by the American National Boxing Association, fought just once in the United States. He outpointed Al Andrews in 10 rounds at Madison Square Garden and then returned to Germany where he found the competition easier and the purses better.

A southpaw, his power is represented mainly by his left hook. It is generally agreed that he has to connect with the hook to win. Johnson has been stopped three times and has 31 knockouts to his credit. His over-all record is 68-8.

Scholz saw Johnson outpoint Doug Jones of New York at Philadelphia last May 12 and praised the champion's versatility.

"He is a very fine boxer and knows every punch in the book," said Scholz. "I still have hopes of beating him."

The victory over Jones gained almost worldwide recognition for Johnson as champion. Only California still considers old Archie Moore as the champion.

The Philadelphia had earned the NBA's title by stopping Bowdry in the ninth round on Feb. 7, 1961. In two defenses the same year he knocked out Von Clay in the second round and outpointed Eddie Cotton in 15.

If Scholz wins, he is committed to a return fight in Philadelphia.

Blancas Wins Semifinal In NCAA Meet

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—The University of Houston corralled both spots in the NCAA Golf Tournament finals Friday as All-American Homero Blancas and medalist Kermit Zarley each scored two victories.

Blancas lost only one hole all day as he turned back Tom Shaw of Oregon, 3 and 2, with a 2-under-par performance in the afternoon semifinals following a 5 and 4 morning quarter-finals victory over Jim Ferrell of Louisville.

Zarley, who plays No. 3 on Houston's championship team back of Blancas' No. 1, birdied the last hole for a 1 up afternoon victory over huge Bill Garrett of North Texas State. In the morning round Zarley was even par as he put out Jim Ewing of Southern California, 5 and 4.

The Houston teammates will meet over 36 holes for the title Saturday, the rounds starting at 8:30 a.m. and 1 p.m., EST.

For the second year in a row teammates will meet for the championship. Jack Nicklaus, new U.S. Open champion, defeated Mike Padolski in an all-Ohio State final last year.

Blancas, son of a Houston golf course greens keeper, is a compact 5-foot-10, 185-pound 24-year-old. Zarley, who is 20, has lost some weight in the steaming heat here this week and is down to about 155 pounds but vows he'll take on poundage once he gets back to his father's Yakima, Wash., restaurant.

This is Zarley's first NCAA tournament and the third for Blancas, a first round loser twice before. The swarthy Texan reached the fourth round of the National Amateur last year, beating veteran internationalist Bob Gardner en route.

Blancas' record in the NCAA tournament is 1-2-1. He lost to Phil Rodgers in the first round, 1-2, and to Phil Rodgers in the second round, 1-2. He won the third round, 1-2, and the fourth round, 1-2.

U.S. May Request 4-Power Meeting To Stop Gunplay Along Berlin Wall

BONN, Germany (AP) — The American sources reported Fri- Konrad Adenauer in a five-hour meeting. Both Adenauer and Rusk told reporters their talks resulted in full agreement on all questions of mutual interest, including Berlin. American sources said the in- creasing danger of serious trou- ble as a result of shootings across the Berlin wall by East German guards probably will cause the United States to suggest a get- together with the Soviet Union, Britain and France, the four oc- cupation powers. More than 30 persons have been killed in trying to get through the wall. Two East German guards were killed recently. The shooting has been getting wilder, and West German police have begun to build their own trenches and sand- bag nests. From the Western viewpoint, a four-power meeting would be a natural strategem to emphasize sovereign country and is respon- sible. East Berlin as an occupation pow- er. The Russians usually turn aside to control access to West Berlin was discussed with Adenauer al- though Rusk was reported to feel this is now a hypothetical ques- tion.

U.S. May Request 4-Power Meeting To Stop Gunplay Along Berlin Wall

BONN, Germany (AP) — The American sources reported Friday that the United States may press the Soviet Union for a four-power meeting to put a stop to the increasing gunplay along Berlin's wall. Secretary of State Dean Rusk apparently suggested the idea Friday to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in a five-hour meeting. Both Adenauer and Rusk told reporters their talks resulted in full agreement on all questions of mutual interest, including Berlin. American sources said the increasing danger of serious trouble as a result of shootings across the Berlin wall by East German guards probably will cause the United States to suggest a get-together with the Soviet Union, Britain and France, the four occupation powers. More than 30 persons have been killed in trying to get through the wall. Two East German guards were killed recently. The shooting has been getting wilder, and West German police have begun to build their own trenches and sandbag nests. From the Western viewpoint, a four-power meeting would be a natural strategem to emphasize over-all Soviet responsibility in East Berlin as an occupation power. The Russians usually turn aside protests over shootings on the grounds that East Germany is a sovereign country and is responsible. American sources said the question of an international authority to control access to West Berlin was discussed with Adenauer although Rusk was reported to feel this is now a hypothetical question.

Miscellaneous Tea Shower Given For Miss Cooper

Hosting the party were Mrs. Johnnie Painich, Mrs. Frank Boyd, Mrs. T. Gallien and Mrs. Fred Lafferty. Miss Cooper will exchange wedding vows with George R. Sumlin Jr., of Southside Methodist Church on July 17. Parents of the young couple are Mr. and Mrs. Q. T. Cooper Jr., of Monroe, and Mr. and Mrs. George R. Sumlin Sr., of Delhi.

Mrs. Boyd registered the guests in the bride's book as they arrived. Forming the receiving line were Mrs. Painich, the honoree, Mrs. Cooper, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Sumlin Sr., mother of the prospective groom, and Mrs. Ben D. Capshaw, his grandmother.

The tea table was overlaid with a white ruffled organdy cloth. A massive arrangement of pink Kilium daisies, Fuji and palm mums centered the table, with two pink candles placed at either end. Alternating in the serving and pouring courtesies were Mrs. Fred Lafferty and Mrs. T. Gallien.

Miss Cooper greeted her guests wearing a red sheath of chiffon over taffeta, and gold accessories. Her corsage was of tiny white chrysanthemums. Approximately 100 guests called between the appointed hours of 7 to 9 p.m.

HINTS FROM Heloise

DEAR FOLKS:

I died a thousand deaths today and if my ulcer doesn't start acting up tomorrow, I will be surprised.

For the first time in my life I washed silk lampshades!

I completely ruined one and let me tell you how to prevent this. DON'T wash the shade if it is years old or if the fabric is rotten! Four years ago, I bought four beautiful matching shades. Only one is ruined.

That was the shade that has been by the open window where the sun shone on it all the time. I believe the sun coming through the glass had rotted the fabric. I think people should rotate lampshades at least once a year. Especially on pairs. Matching shades are quite expensive.

If the shades on a pair of matching lamps are rotated at least they will wear out at the same time. We don't feel so bad about this. But to have an odd one makes us sick.

Now, from all the letters sent in that told us how to wash lampshades (and some were hilarious) I compiled four different methods. Here's the best:

First, look to see if your fabric is sewn on the frame. Most fabrics are.

Never wash a lampshade or even try to spot clean it BEFORE trying to remove the dust. Use either a vacuum cleaner and suck the dust out — and I find this best — or take a clean brush and brush it well. Then, and only then, get ready to wash it.

Fill your sink (if it's big enough — and if not, use your tub) with lukewarm water and put a mild detergent in the water. Mix this well.

My shades were white silk taffeta, and had a gimp trim. Trims are sometimes loose. Take a needle and thread and tack any loose places with a loose basting or blind stitch. When gimp is glued on, warm water will sometimes cause it all to come loose. On my shades, only in one place did it come loose and I later glued it back on!

If the trim on your shade is a different color from the shade itself, I suggest you remove the trim. It's easy. Otherwise, it just might fade.

And, ladies if your gimp (or trim) is bad, forget it. New gimp can be bought at upholstery shops very cheap. Besides, maybe this is just what you are looking for to give those shades a new zip. It's easy to glue or tack on with a needle and thread.

Hang an old nylon stocking around your neck (you'll use this later) and lay a bath towel on the drainboard. Put the lampshade in the suds and immediately wet the entire shade to prevent spotting and rings. This can be done by twirling the shade through the water or taking a glass and pouring the water over the shade.

Use a soft, clean vegetable brush and gently rub the fabric. This should be done as quickly as possible. We do not want the shade in the water too long. We want to prevent rust and not dissolve some types of glue.

Rinse well with a spray. Hair sprays attached to the kitchen faucet are grand for this. If you have no spray, then take the shade to your bathroom and rinse it in the tub. By holding your finger under the spigot you can have a pretty good substitute. Or take a glass of water and pour the water through the shade.

Immediately lay the shade on the bath towel after rinsing. This will absorb some of the water that has come to the bottom of the shade. Rinsing is MOST important. We do not want any soap film left in the shade. One woman used vinegar water to rinse hers with. This is good.

Now, take the shade outside to the clothesline and grab that nylon stocking that you have hanging around your neck and tie it to the brace on top of the shade line, then tie this to the clothes line.

It may look like you belong in an institution when you hang lampshades on a clothes line (all my neighbors laughed) but the wind and air will dry them quickly and prevent rust. Do this on a dry day.

When the shades are dry — and this won't take very long — glue or sew back on any gimp or trim that might have come loose. For those who live in apartments and don't have clotheslines I have another idea which I used on one shade:

After the shade's water is absorbed by the towel, put the shade back on the lamp, turn on the light and set up an electric fan so that it will blow on the shade. The heat from the light and the air from the fan will dry it.

Hanging from the ceiling were silver wedding bells with streamers flowing to either end of the table. Presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. Frost, and Mrs. McDaniel served the party pastries.

Floral arrangements of daisies, bells of Ireland, lilies, tuberoses, and roses were placed at vantage points throughout the reception rooms. The nuptial motif was emphasized with golden wedding bells. The tea table, covered with a pale yellow organdy cloth over yellow satin was centered with a seven branched candelabrum entwined with daisies, candytuft and other blossoms. Punch and coffee were served with a variety of party dainties. Tea girls wearing wrist corsages of pastel colored daisies were Miss Diane Webb, Miss Carolyn Yerger, Miss Jeanne Yerger and Miss Delores Brown. Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Lee Cummins, Mrs. Robert Cagnolatti and Mrs. Walter Scott Jr.

Over a hundred guests called between the appointed hours.

conscious and ill at ease.

You did the right thing—probably several years too late.

DEAR ANN: Can you help an old lady? I am having a daughter-in-law problem.

I make my home with my son and his wife. Until two years ago I worked. I retired at 65. My daughter-in-law has always worked and still does. We used to come home about the same time and do the housework and cooking together. Now she insists that I leave the cooking to her. She asked me not even to go into her room to straighten it up.

She is always nagging my son about money problems. She recently hinted that a friend of hers has her mother-in-law living with her and she gives up one-third of her social security for room and board. I think a woman my age should spend her social security check as she wishes. What do you think?—UNWEL-COME

DEAR UNWELCOME: I'm afraid, my dear woman, money is the least of your problems. A mother-in-law who signs her letter as you did ought to live somewhere else. You'll all be a lot happier.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 41-year-old boy. My father is teaching me how to dance. He is supposed to be a real good dancer (at least that's what my mother says.) Well, maybe he was considered good in his day, but he dances like they used to way back in the early 40's and can't get it. Anyway, even if I could I wouldn't care to dance that way because no one dances like that any more. How can I cut off his lessons without hurting his feelings?

DEAR ABBY: LEARNING TO DANCE: Don't be foolish. Let him teach you. It might come in handy when you have to dance with your girl friend's mother. In the meantime, get someone in your generation to teach you how to dance 1962 style.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I received an invitation to a shower by the mother of the bride. On the invitation was written: "PLEASE BRING SANDWICHES."

I am not a relative. I wasn't sure if she meant I should bring sandwiches for the crowd, or just for myself, so I called her up and she said to bring a sandwich just for myself as she'd serve coffee. I have never heard of a shower like this, have you? And I never knew the bride's mother could give the shower. Will you please straighten me out?

NEWS TO ME

DEAR NEWS: It is news to me, too. YOU are all straightened out, my dear. It is the bride's mother who is confused. SHOWERS for brides should be given by friends—not relatives. And a guest should not be asked you finally "win"—you lose.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FORBIDDEN FRUIT": Don't waste any more time on someone who does not respect his present vows. If you finally "win"—you lose.

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

Monkey Isle Is Donated To City Zoo

The local Optimist Club formally presented the city of Monroe a $3,500 gift Friday—a monkey island at Bernstein Park zoo.

Mayor W. L. Howard accepted the club's donation from President Ed Morrison at the group's regular Friday noon luncheon meeting and later looked over the zoo's new feature along with members of the club.

"This is the largest donation to the zoo we have received from a civic club," Howard said.

THANKS CLUB

H. W. McSherry, commissioner of finance and utilities, thanked the club for its donation and asked for the group's continued interest in the zoo and its facilities. W. D. H. Rodriguez, commissioner of streets and parks, was unable to attend the meeting.

The island in the zoo's lake has a miniature brick castle which will be free to roam the island but will not be able to escape because, according to Jack Hesketh, city recreation director and zoo director, they can't swim. Value of the island and castle is estimated at $3,500. Optimists raised $1,147 of the funds from their annual Christmas tree sales project and received donations of building materials from several local firms, Acme Brick, Edmondson Brick and Tile, Turpin Lumber, Slagle-Johnson Lumber, McCoy Lumber, M. Kaplan Iron Works and Proffit Homes. Architect Paul Stewart donated plans for the castle.

Tommy Agnew was chairman of the Optimist committee in charge of the project. Other committee members were Ira Cagle, Gordon Surguine and Ryder Gore.

'Sex Change' Operations Suit Filed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—David Reed Cameron, 36, from a wealthy Buffalo suburb, filed suit in State Supreme Court Friday for $5 million damages, charging that he was made into a freak and nonentity by a series of operations designed to turn him into a woman.

The complaint filed by Cameron of Orchard Park, charged that four doctors "conspired together and maliciously and wilfully entered into a scheme to experiment upon the body of the plaintiff."

The attempted transformation, said the suit, was in violation of the laws of God and man, and the folkways of American society and civilization.

Cameron did not appear and no further details about him were available. The papers said he was also known as Joan Carol Reed.

His attorney, Albert Averbach of Seneca Falls, declined to discuss the case.

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a girl who just finished her junior year in high school. If some miracle doesn't happen this summer, I'll set some kind of a record. I'll graduate from high school without having had one single, honest-to-goodness date.

I'm sure no one realizes how miserable I am because I participate in all sorts of school activities. I've held offices and seem to be in on everything. I'm everybody's friend and nobody's girl. Fellows I could go ape over ask my advice on how to get other girls interested in them. It really does hurt.

Perhaps I should tell you that I'm 5'5" and pleasingly plump. I won't tell you how much I weigh because I don't look THAT heavy, but my mother won't let me diet. She says the girls today look consumptive and she doesn't want me wrecking my health just so I can wear a size 14 comfortably.

Please give me a clue. I'm—BESIDE MYSELF

DEAR BESIDE: If you're 5'5" and can't get into a size 14, there's a lot more of you than you need.

It's true that mature fellows don't attach a great deal of importance to a girl's size, but it's asking a lot of a high school kid to go ape over a gal who is bigger than he is.

Dieting doesn't necessarily mean starving to death. Please go to your family doctor and get his advice. He'll give it to you straight — minus the mother love.

DEAR ANN: I told a close friend off the other day. Now I'm wondering if I was too short-tempered.

Betty and I have played cards together for several years. We belong to the same service clubs and see a lot of each other. Almost without fail whenever she see me she has a welcoming criticism. Example: "You have a run in your hose." Or "Your hem is uneven."

Yesterday when I walked into a club meeting she greeted me with, "Your sleeves are too long."

I replied, "Thanks a lot, but I left my sewing machine at home and I can't do anything about it at the moment."

She turned to me and snapped, "I only mentioned it because I'm your friend." She looked hurt and hardly spoke to me after that. My day was ruined.

Was I out of line or was I justified in telling her off?—UP TO HERE.

DEAR UP: A friend who tells you your hem is crooked or your sleeves are too long just as you arrive at a party, is no friend.

Such information can do nothing for you but make you self-conscious and ill at ease.

You did the right thing—probably several years too late.

DEAR ANN: Can you help an old lady? I am having a daughter-in-law problem.

I make my home with my son and his wife. Until two years ago I worked. I retired at 65. My daughter-in-law has always worked and still does. She recently hinted that a friend of hers has her mother-in-law living with her and she gives up one-third of her social security for room and board. I think a woman my age should spend her social security check as she wishes. What do you think?—UNWEL-COME

DEAR UNWELCOME: I'm afraid, my dear woman, money is the least of your problems. A mother-in-law who signs her letter as you did ought to live somewhere else. You'll all be a lot happier.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a girl who just finished her junior year in high school. If some miracle doesn't happen this summer, I'll set some kind of a record. I'll graduate from high school without having had one single, honest-to-goodness date.

I'm sure no one realizes how miserable I am because I participate in all sorts of school activities. I've held offices and seem to be in on everything. I'm everybody's friend and nobody's girl. Fellows I could go ape over ask my advice on how to get other girls interested in them. It really does hurt.

Perhaps I should tell you that I'm 5'5" and pleasingly plump. I won't tell you how much I weigh because I don't look THAT heavy, but my mother won't let me diet. She says the girls today look consumptive and she doesn't want me wrecking my health just so I can wear a size 14 comfortably.

Please give me a clue. I'm—BESIDE MYSELF

DEAR BESIDE: If you're 5'5" and can't get into a size 14, there's a lot more of you than you need.

It's true that mature fellows don't attach a great deal of importance to a girl's size, but it's asking a lot of a high school kid to go ape over a gal who is bigger than he is.

Dieting doesn't necessarily mean starving to death. Please go to your family doctor and get his advice. He'll give it to you straight — minus the mother love.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 41-year-old boy. My father is teaching me how to dance. He is supposed to be a real good dancer (at least that's what my mother says.) Well, maybe he was considered good in his day, but he dances like they used to way back in the early 40's and I can't get it. Anyway, even if I could I wouldn't care to dance that way because no one dances like that any more. How can I cut off his lessons without hurting his feelings?

LEARNING TO DANCE

DEAR ABBY: Let him teach you. It might come in handy when you have to dance with your girl friend's mother. In the meantime, get someone in your generation to teach you how to dance 1962 style.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I received an invitation to a shower by the mother of the bride. On the invitation was written: "PLEASE BRING SANDWICHES."

I am not a relative. I wasn't sure if she meant I should bring sandwiches for the crowd, or just for myself, so I called her up and she said to bring a sandwich just for myself as she'd serve coffee. I have never heard of a shower like this, have you? And I never knew the bride's mother could give the shower. Will you please straighten me out?

NEWS TO ME

DEAR NEWS: It is news to me, too. YOU are all straightened out, my dear. It is the bride's mother who is confused. SHOWERS for brides should be given by friends — not relatives. And a guest should not be asked you finally "win" — you lose.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FORBIDDEN FRUIT": Don't waste any more time on someone who does not respect his present vows. If you finally "win" — you lose.

How's the world treating you? For a personal unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

Monkey Isle Is Donated To City Zoo

The local Optimist Club formally presented the city of Monroe a $3,500 gift Friday — a monkey island at Bernstein Park zoo.

Mayor W. L. Howard accepted the club's donation from President Ed Morrison at the group's regular Friday noon luncheon meeting and later looked over the zoo's new feature along with members of the club.

"This is the largest donation to the zoo we have received from a civic club," Howard said.

THANKS CLUB

H. W. McSherry, commissioner of finance and utilities, thanked the club for its donation and asked for the group's continued interest in the zoo and its facilities. W. D. H. Rodriguez, commissioner of streets and parks, was unable to attend the meeting.

The island in the zoo's lake has a miniature brick castle which will house the monkeys. The animals will be free to roam the island but will not be able to escape because, according to Jack Hesketh, city recreation director and zoo director, they can't swim.

Value of the island and castle is estimated at $3,500. Optimists raised $1,147 of the funds from their annual Christmas tree sales project and received donations of building materials from several local firms, Acme Brick, Edmondson Brick and Tile, Turpin Lumber, Slagle - Johnson Lumber, McCoy Lumber, M. Kaplan Iron Works and Proffit Homes.

Architect Paul Stewart donated plans for the castle.

Tommy Agnew was chairman of the Optimist committee in charge of the project. Other committee members were Ira Cagle, Gordon Surguine and Ryder Gore.

'Sex Change' Operations Suit Filed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—David Reed Cameron, 36, from a wealthy Buffalo suburb, filed suit in State Supreme Court Friday for $5 million damages, charging that he was made into a freak and nonentity by a series of operations designed to turn him into a woman.

The complaint filed by Cameron of Orchard Park, charged that four doctors "conspired together and maliciously and wilfully entered into a scheme to experiment upon the body of the plaintiff."

The attempted transformation, said the suit, was in violation of the laws of God and man, and the folkways of American society and civilization.

Cameron did not appear and no further details about him were available. The papers said he was also known as Joan Carol Reed.

His attorney, Albert Averbach of Seneca Falls, declined to discuss the case.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. ADKERS
United Press International

The Union Army of the Potomac and the newly named Confederate Army of Northern Virginia fought for seven days in the heat and the swamps of the Peninsula in front of Richmond — from June 25 through July 1, 1862.

When the last gun fell silent after this memorable Seven Days' battle, the names of 36,464 Americans were added to the Civil War casualty lists.

And for what?

Gen. Robert E. Lee, directing his first big battle, was successful in that he drove back the Army of the Potomac from the gates of Richmond, the Confederate capital.

Maj. Gen. George B. McClellan, also directing his first big battle, had saved his Union army from what appeared to be certain disaster to fight another day but he lost the Peninsula campaign, the brainchild on which he had pinned his hopes for fame.

The first day's fighting — June 25 — was only a faint herald of what was to come. The fighting was inconclusive. What McClellan did not know was that Lee had picked the next day — June 26 — for his offensive.

Lee's carefully planned drive was north of the Chickahominy where McClellan had left one corps commanded by Maj. Gen. Fitz-John Porter. Especially for this offensive Lee had brought Maj. Gen. Thomas J. (Stonewall) Jackson's army from the Shenandoah Valley. This was Lee's "secret weapon" and designed to be the crusher. Jackson's part in the battle was to be a strike at dawn in the rear of Porter's corps.

But Jackson, brilliant in the Valley, lost his touch this week. Lee with 47,000 troops waited to hit Porter's right flank when Jackson's artillery opened fire. He waited all morning — no action.

At 3 p.m. Lee ordered the assault anyway. Maj. Gen. A. P. Hill flung his division against Porter's entrenched lines and splintered them just before dark.

That night Porter withdrew three miles to a position near Gaines's Mill. The next day, June 27, Lee sent 65,000 men — more than twice as many as Porter had — into the fight. Porter's line crumbled, almost collapsed, but with fresh troops from the main Federal army south of the Chickahominy, he was able to withdraw across the river in fairly good order.

South of the river, meantime, "Prince John" Magruder was staging another one of his "shows." With much bugle blowing and marching and counter-

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

TRAVELER'S FOOD POISONING

Many people hesitate to travel south of the border because of the threat of tourist diarrhea. But annually more than 500,000 Americans are willing to take a chance. These travelers go equipped with boxes of pills that are supposed to prevent the condition or control it should it develop.

A variety of drugs are recommended but there is no single product that offers 100 per cent protection. This is mentioned, even though many persons and physicians have pet remedies that always seem to work. The reason why a magic pill is not available stems from the fact that the causes of the trots vary considerably. This form of food poisoning is aided and abetted by fatigue, exotic foods, and overindulgence in liquor.

Most of the recommended drugs do an excellent job when pitted against the right germ or ameba. But who knows ahead of time what micro-organism will have the pleasure of spoiling your vacation?

What are your chances of getting turista without taking preventive tablets or capsules? A winter and summer study among American students in Mexico City showed that 17 to 24 per cent developed diarrhea. Not everyone gets the disorder and the tourist who escapes need not give all the credit to a magic prescription. The same applies to taking the precaution of drinking only bottled water and avoiding raw foods.

But the chances of escaping diarrhea are greater when an antibacterial is used. A study, conducted by a group of New York City physicians, and reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association, demonstrated this fact.

A poorly absorbed sulfa agent proved to be the most effective of all. It reduced the chance of getting diarrhea by 50 per cent. This product also proved to be safe to take, an important consideration when going on a vacation.

Confederate Gen. D. H. Hill summed up:

"It was not war—it was murder."

The casualty lists told the story: The Union counted 1,734 killed, 8,062 wounded, 6,053 missing brigade after brigade, rushed at a total of 29,615.

Grand total 36,464. But the Confederate victory was mowed them down with shrapnel, grape and caustic while our innumerable. The siege of Richmond was raised. The Federal

Voice Of Broadway

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Dear Dorothy: It's funny, but the fateful day was really a Wednesday, not a Sunday. "What's My Line" has been broadcast on Sundays for so many years now that it seems as if it were always that way. But no — it was a Wednesday all right — February 2nd, 1950, when you and I shared that opening night.

Program Number One: You relationship that develops between the only girl on that first TV viewer and the panelist.

Arlene Francis was not it. It is quite different from the panel. Arlene Francis was not it. It is quite different from the panel.

Bill Todman and I paced back and forth like expectant fathers. It is not what panelists do.

Anyway, as you remember, the audience laugh and you hear number two, and not far along the line we recruited Random House's Bennett Cerf. And the three of you, plus John, have been with the regular quadrumvirate for so long that it's really impossible to tell where the show ends and you begin, or vice versa. Whether you like it or not you have jointly become an institution like a Mar-ble call out to you on the street of Gras, or the Kentucky Derby, or a carriage whom they hadn't seen in a week ride in Central Park on a sunny afternoon. You are now an American tradition.

From time to time, would-be helpers pose this question to us: Isn't it just about time you change that panel? How about a little a new blood to jazz things up? Well, I'd be less than honest if I say we have never thought about it.

But we have learned through experience. We have discovered that panelists are like certain wines. If they are not very good to start with, aging merely soures them. If they are brisk and zesty and flavorful, they improve with time. There is a delicate something in the air just before show time which maintains itself right straight through until 10:30, a kind of vibration that says "anything can happen." Like, for instance, that time we had a contestant from England who was a

"poet" and when the guessing was over he quickly turned to John and asked if he might read a small sample of his work. John, helpless to reject this offer, let the British bard recite. One verse, then two, then three, then four, and on and on went this marathon recital! Director Frank Heller, panned his camera over your faces, frozen into postures of courteous disbelief. I expected, any second, that one of you would break up and I am sure that you must have been punching your elves under the table to hold yourselves in check. Luckily, the poem ended just in time to squeeze in the last commercial and permit condensed goodnights.

Then there was the time that Ethel Waters was the mystery guest. Blindfolded you asked the great Negro singer, "Are you a blonde?" There was a sudden hushed silence in the audience. How would Daly and the panel get out of this potentially embarrassing situation? But Ethel merely beamed "Honey," she called out, "have you made a big mistake?" Tension vanished, the audience roared with laughter, and the night was saved.

So, dear Dorothy, we have no shyness of variety, excitement and change of pace around the "What's My Line" studio, and as a conservative balance we maintain the familiar, steady presence of our old friends on the panel. It is this ambivalent package of novelty - and - familiarity which explains the amazingly tenacious hold that this relatively simple format has on the viewing public.

Now you know why we are still together — and will be for a long time to come.
